

Tigers' Speed Vs Shawnee's Height In Tourney Tilt

The quickness and aggressive team play of the Circleville Tigers will be pitted against the height of Springfield when the two teams meet 9:30 p.m. Friday in the semi-final round of the Class AA Dayton Regional basketball tournament at the University of Dayton Arena.

The teams, two of 16 remaining in the running for the State Class AA basketball title, will conclude Friday night's regional play that will narrow the field to eight.

Winner of the Circleville-Shawnee game will clash Saturday at 9:30 p.m. in the regional finals against the winner of the Dayton Stivers-Cincinnati Reading game which precedes the Tiger contest Friday.

And that winner will advance to the State semi-finals 2:30 p.m. Friday, March 21, against the winner of the Canton Regional tournament. The semi-final winner will play the winner of the Ohio University-Bowling Green Regional clash Saturday, March 22, at 3 p.m. in the State Finals.

The state tournament games are all played at Ohio State University's St. John Arena.

Shawnee rolled to a 16-1 regular season record and 20-1 all-games mark in winning the Troy Sectional and District tournament.

Miami River Valley Champions in 1974 with a 15-3 record, they earned the Central Buckeye League championship this year in its first year as a league.

In rolling through the season, the Braves averaged 61.5 points a game on offense and allowed only 48.2.

Shawnee topped Graham St. Paris 62-25 in the first sectional game and won the title with a 65-37 win over West Milton. In the district tourney, the Braves advanced by stopping Northwestern 70-58 and then won the title with a 47-46 win over Bellefontaine.

Their only loss was a 72-64 decision to Urbana, a team they had beaten 62-55 in the third game of the year.

One common opponent with the Tigers is London. In the ninth game of the year at London, Shawnee escaped with a 50-49 win. And in the second to last game, Shawnee rolled to a 64-45 win.

Circleville topped London in the London gym 64-60 in the 15th game of the season. The Tigers and Braves were the only two teams to defeat London at home in three years.

In final season Class AA balloting by the Associated Press, Circleville was voted the top team while Shawnee finished seventh.

The Tigers of Coach John Lawhorn ripped through the regular season with an 18-0 record and copped the South Central Ohio League trophy with a perfect 12-0 record.

Circleville averaged 71.4 points a game in the regular season while allowing 53.8.

The Tigers stopped Teays Valley 71-54 in its first sectional tilt and then won the Grove City sectional with a 63-44 win over Logan Elm. In the district, the Tigers downed Licking Valley 77-65 and disposed of St. Charles 62-54 in the finals.

In the four tournament games, Circleville is averaging 68.2 points a game while allowing 54.2 and Shawnee is averaging 64.8 points while giving up 44.5.

The entire Shawnee attack at both ends of the floor is centered around 6-9 center Steve Sahle and 6-8 forward

Tim Waterman. And, if that's not enough, they have a fine shooter in 6-foot forward Tom Justice, who is not, afraid to toss the ball up with the big men under the boards.

Other starters will probably be 5-10 guard Scott McDonald, son of Head Coach Dale McDonald, and 5-10 Cliff Davis.

Sahle was honored as an all-league and all-district pick this year for his play. In the 16 regular season games, he has scored 252 points, a 16-point-a-game average, had 16 rebounds, and averaged two steals per game.

He stays around the basket on offense and has a 41 per cent average (Continued on Page 13)

Indictments Asked In Hearst Hunt Over Concealment

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A U.S. attorney says he is seeking indictments here against one or more persons for allegedly harboring fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst while she hid out in northeastern Pennsylvania, a newspaper reported today.

"There will be indictments," the San Francisco Chronicle quoted U.S. Attorney John Cottone as saying.

The Scranton, Pa., Tribune also said in today's editions that indictments are being sought in the Hearst case. The newspaper attributed the report to unidentified sources.

Cattone, the U.S. attorney for the Middle District of Pennsylvania, said a federal grand jury at Harrisburg probably would return the indictments today or Friday, the Chronicle said.

Plan Suit Dismissal

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — The Marathon Oil Co. announced Wednesday it and the Justice Department have agreed to move for dismissal of one of the lawsuits challenging the Federal Energy Administration's old oil "entitlements" program.

Marathon emphasized that the dismissal, if granted, would not affect its separate suit challenging the regulation under the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act.

Arguments on that suit were heard by the Temporary Emergency Court of Appeals in Washington March 5. No decision has been issued yet.

The dismissal involves an earlier suit filed in the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington as a protective measure to preserve the company's right of review of the program.

The Justice Department conceded that the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act, rather than the Federal Energy Administration Act, was the proper act under which judicial review is governed, as contended by Marathon, the company said.

Education Gets Boost Under Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposed budget for elementary and secondary education totals $2.2 billion for the 1975-1977 biennium for what he called "the largest planned increase" in the state's history.

His spending plan for higher education totals $1.05 billion, and increase of about $270 million, or 34.7 per cent, over the current, two-year bookkeeping period which ends June 30.

Together, they represent about 44 per cent of the general fund budget.

The elementary and secondary education allocations are designed to produce these results:

—Increase per pupil support by the state from $660 in 1975 to $760 in 1976, and to $800 in 1977.

—Hike salaries $2,650 per teacher, with $650 of the total coming from the legislature's recent $91.3 million supplemental appropriations bill, and $1,000 from basic aid increase in each of the next two years.

—Increase per pupil transportation subsidies by $19.2 million to cover higher costs of fuel.

—Increase appropriations for special education by $32.7 million.

—Increase appropriations for vocational education by $44.1 million.

—Increase subsidies for school lunch programs in the next biennium from $5.3 million to $20.7 million. The state subsidy for each free lunch would rise from 5.6 cents to 15 cents.

In the field of higher education, Rhodes proposes to:

—Increase state support for each full-time student by 14.73 per cent in 1976 and 11.62 per cent in 1977.

—Remove the mandated ceiling on instructional fees "to allow the boards of trustees . . . of each institution decide among funding priorities and the necessity for additional income."

—Give special added subsidies to Central State University and Ohio University to meet "extraordinary needs of those institutions."

—Create a commission on student financial aid to absorb the Ohio Student Loan Commission and the Ohio Instructional Grants program.

—Continue the Board of Regents "but with a reduced budget" that reflects removal of the instruction grants program from its jurisdiction and elimination of the board's six-member management improvement staff.

—Continue public service programs, including educational television broadcasting, labor education, and community police and fire protection.

—Increase support for medical colleges and family practice programs being developed at the institutions.

$30 Billion Tax Cut Eyed By Senate Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee is beginning work on a tax cut expected to be nearly double the amount recommended by President Ford and almost $10 billion higher than that approved by the House.

Meanwhile, the committee is awaiting guidance from the Senate Democratic caucus on whether the bill should include repeal of the oil depletion allowance, as did the House-passed legislation.

Several Senate committee members have indicated they will follow the advice of numerous economists and vote to raise the income-tax cut far above the $21.3 billion approved by the House and $16 billion recommended by Ford.

The figure most often mentioned is in the $30 billion range.

The committee aims to get the tax cut bill to a Senate vote early next week so final congressional action can be taken before a two-week Easter recess starts on March 21. However, attaching the depletion-repeal issue to the tax cut bill could prompt a filibuster by senators who oppose repeal and thus delay the tax cut measure.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Finance Committee, are insisting that the depletion issue be handled separately so the recession-fighting tax cut will not be delayed.

A bloc led by Sens. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., contends the tax cut bill is so important that President Ford would not veto it, even if it contains a depletion-repeal amendment, which he opposes.

By allowing oil and gas producers to escape taxation on 22 per cent of their petroleum income, the depletion allowance saves the petroleum industry a estimated $2.5 billion annually in federal taxes.

Senators on opposing sides of the depletion question have talked recently of compromise so the tax-cut bill will not be delayed.

Rhodes Program Called Continuation Budget

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The record $12.2 billion, two-year budget Gov. James A. Rhodes sent state lawmakers contained increases for most agencies, but apparently reflected increasing costs brought on by inflation as much as anything else.

Biggest increases from new money would go to education and welfare.

Budget and Management Director Howard Collier stopped short of calling it a continuation budget at a press briefing Wednesday, but said "there just wasn't enough money" to fund some of the new programs Rhodes promised in last year's election campaign.

The biggest was a Rhodes plan to permit married couples to choose between joint or individual state income tax returns to enjoy possible savings under one or the other. Present law says they must file the same type of return they file under the federal income tax.

Bills pending in the legislature, to do the same thing, produced estimates that the change would cost the state about $171.2 million over the two-year bookkeeping period starting July 1.

Collier said Rhodes was "very upset" that the funds were not available, and added "he has very strong feelings about this."

Some of Rhodes' campaign promises did find their way into the budget. They included $7 million to pay the regular salaries of police, firemen, and prison guards killed in the line of duty to their survivors. Payments would continue until the time at which the deceased would have reached retirement age and started receiving his pension.

Rhodes, who complained in the campaign that the Board of Regents had become too powerful, called for a cut in its budget from $2.5 million to $1.9 million. He also plans to propose, in separate legislation, elimination of a management improvement program in the regents' office, and transfer of the Ohio Instructional Grants program from the regents to a new agency that also would incorporate the Ohio Student Loan Commission, now a separate entity.

Included in Rhodes' proposals for elementary and secondary education was a plan to earmark $2,650 for each teacher in the biennium for salary increases, another campaign promise.

Report Deadlock Resolved In Middle East Peace Hunt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The Cairo newspaper Al Ahran indicated today that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger may have resolved the deadlock over Israel's demand for an Egyptian nonbelligerency pledge in return for a further pullback in the Sinai Desert.

The semiofficial newspaper stressed that Egypt is now insisting that a fixed date or maximum time period for reconvening the Geneva peace talks must accompany any Israeli-Egyptian pact.

Al Ahran's shift of emphasis to the post-disengagement Geneva talks was taken as an indication that the dispute over guarantees of peace may have been cleared up.

On Kissinger's flight Wednesday from Israel to Aswan, in upper Egypt, U.S. officials said the secretary of state was considering a joint affirmation by Egypt and Israel that neighboring countries should not settle their differences by acts of war. A similar statement was contained in the first disengagement agreement Kissinger worked out a year ago between the two governments.

All Kissinger would say for the record was that he thought Egypt and Israel "want an agreement and are working seriously toward it. Whether it is possible to match the requirements of the two sides remains to be seen."

State Department spokesman Robert Anderson said Kissinger and President Anwar Sadat had "very good talks" Wednesday night in Aswan, "reviewed all elements of a possible disengagement agreement" and discussed "serious complicated subjects."

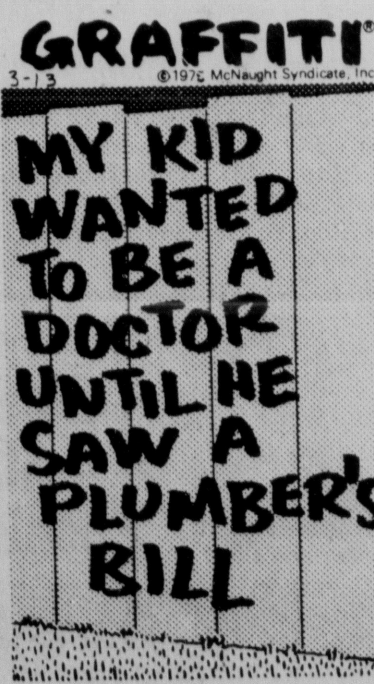

"There is still more work to be done," Anderson went on, but added: "both the president and the secretary continue to be hopeful."

Sadat was meeting this morning with aides, while Kissinger and his wife were visiting temples of the Pharaohs on the Nile island of Philae.

In Damascus, the military chief of the Palestine Liberation Organization derided Kissinger as a "joker and a charlatan" whose shuttle diplomacy was designed to pressure Sadat into an agreement ignoring the interests of Cairo's Arab allies, notably Syria.

Zouheir Mohsen acknowledged that the PLO raid on a Tel Aviv hotel in which 18 persons died last week was designed to sabotage Kissinger's mission.

"We will strike at any Israeli strategic target wherever we can reach it, in Israel or in Japan or in the United States," he said in an interview.

magazine, better known as the TV Guide, Cleveland Amory says about Hot L. Baltimore, "Never has any half hour ever introduced us to so many funny characters" . . .

Describing each character, he states that Conchata Ferrell, Circleville's contribution to the show, has a laugh that belongs in grand opera and adds that Miss Ferrell created the stage role of April . . . Hot L. Baltimore can be seen locally 9 p.m. Friday on WTVN.

Tickets for the Regional Final game Saturday at 9:30 p.m. at the University of Dayton Arena will be sold about a half-hour after the end of the Circleville-Springfield Shawnee clash Friday night, according to Circleville Athletic Director Bud Ohr.

Appeals Court Reverses Case For Webster

Two local cases were decided recently by the Fourth District Court of Appeals.

The court reversed the judgment of the trial of the State of Ohio versus Forrest D. Webster and reaffirmed the judgment in the denial of a motion for a new trial in the case of Sharon Haddox versus Sam Mather.

Webster was found guilty in Circleville Municipal Court for traveling the wrong way on a four-lane highway. In his appeal of the court's decision, his attorneys cited two errors.

The first one was that the necessary elements were not proven by the State of Ohio beyond a reasonable doubt. The defendant also said that the court erred in not dismissing the case.

The Court of Appeals found that evidence was missing which would conclude that Webster was driving the car since the Highway Patrolman had identified him by hearsay evidence. The Municipal Court had ruled out that evidence and the Court of Appeals then found that with that evidence missing, there was no case against Webster.

In the second case finished by the Court of Appeals, Ms. Haddox had filed a bastardy case against Mather in the Pickaway County Common Pleas Court. After a trial was held, judgment was made in favor of Mather. Ms. Haddox sought a new trial but was denied it by the court of appeals.

3 Arrested For OMVI

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies arrested three people Wednesday for driving while intoxicated who were involved in single-car mishaps.

In a report taken by Deputy John Bost, Richard A. Donegan, 42, Grove City, was eastbound on Route 762 when he lost control of his auto on a grade in the road, approximately 7:25 p.m. Wednesday.

The auto went off the road into a ditch and came to rest in a field.

Donegan was treated at the scene for contusions and abrasions to the head and a laceration to the right arm.

Donegan was the first to be cited for driving while intoxicated Wednesday.

Carl E. Johnson, 54, Route 5, was charged by Deputy J. Phillip Brown for OMVI, when he was also involved in an accident on Stout Road, 10:50 p.m. Wednesday.

Traveling north on Stout Road, Johnson came to the Route 188 intersection, lost control and traveled into a ditch.

No injuries were reported.

Forty-three-year-old Donald E. McCoy, Columbus, was cited by Deputy James Dixon for driving while intoxicated, when he was involved in an accident, 11 p.m. Wednesday.

According to the report taken by Deputy Dixon, McCoy was traveling west on Route 316 when he said he was forced off the road by another vehicle.

McCoy's auto went off the right berm and continued into a ditch.

While Dixon was investigating the accident, McCoy became hostile and began using profane language against the Deputy. He advised the Deputy how many Vietnamese he had killed and stated he would get the Deputy one way or another and continued using profanity.

Dixon advised McCoy to stop using the profanity and arrested him for abusing a law officer.

Natural Gas Freeze OKd

Natural Gas Freeze OKd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — East Ohio Gas Co. of Cleveland will be permitted to stop installing new natural gas lines after Dec. 31, the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio decided Wednesday.

East Ohio had asked for the freeze beginning March 1 on new natural gas hookups to alleviate a shortage of natural gas. Commissioners rejected the March 1 date when they said East Ohio failed to demonstrate the impact of its proposed freeze after that date.

East Ohio serves 945,000 in Cuyahoga, Geauga, Lake, Ashtabula, Summit, Portage, Trumbull, Mahoning, Stark and Tuscarawas counties which includes the cities of Akron, Canton, Youngstown and Cleveland.

The commissioners said that gas customers with written commitments from East Ohio to provide service must make facilities ready for hookups by Dec. 31 so East Ohio could honor the commitment.

Statistics show in rough numbers that one out of every five Americans is toothless by age 50.

Appeals Court Reverses Case For Webster

Two local cases were decided recently by the Fourth District Court of Appeals.

The court reversed the judgment of the trial of the State of Ohio versus Forrest D. Webster and reaffirmed the judgment in the denial of a motion for a new trial in the case of Sharon Haddox versus Sam Mather.

Webster was found guilty in Circleville Municipal Court for traveling the wrong way on a four-lane highway. In his appeal of the court's decision, his attorneys cited two errors.

The first one was that the necessary elements were not proven by the State of Ohio beyond a reasonable doubt. The defendant also said that the court erred in not dismissing the case.

The Court of Appeals found that evidence was missing which would conclude that Webster was driving the car since the Highway Patrolman had identified him by hearsay evidence. The Municipal Court had ruled out that evidence and the Court of Appeals then found that with that evidence missing, there was no case against Webster.

In the second case finished by the Court of Appeals, Ms. Haddox had filed a bastardy case against Mather in the Pickaway County Common Pleas Court. After a trial was held, judgment was made in favor of Mather. Ms. Haddox sought a new trial but was denied it by the court of appeals.

3 Arrested For OMVI

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies arrested three people Wednesday for driving while intoxicated who were involved in single-car mishaps.

In a report taken by Deputy John Bost, Richard A. Donegan, 42, Grove City, was eastbound on Route 762 when he lost control of his auto on a grade in the road, approximately 7:25 p.m. Wednesday.

The auto went off the road into a ditch and came to rest in a field. Donegan was treated at the scene for contusions and abrasions to the head and a laceration to the right arm.

Donegan was the first to be cited for driving while intoxicated Wednesday.

Carl E. Johnson, 54, Route 5, was charged by Deputy J. Phillip Brown for OMVI, when he was also involved in an accident on Stout Road, 10:50 p.m. Wednesday.

Traveling north on Stout Road, Johnson came to the Route 188 intersection, lost control and traveled into a ditch.

No injuries were reported. Forty-three-year-old Donald E. McCoy, Columbus, was cited by Deputy James Dixon for driving while intoxicated, when he was involved in an accident, 11 p.m. Wednesday.

According to the report taken by Deputy Dixon, McCoy was traveling west on Route 316 when he said he was forced off the road by another vehicle. McCoy's auto went off the right berm and continued into a ditch.

While Dixon was investigating the accident, McCoy became hostile and began using profane language against the Deputy. He advised the Deputy how many Vietnamese he had killed and stated he would get the Deputy one way or another and continued using profanity.

Dixon advised McCoy to stop using the profanity and arrested him for abusing a law officer.

Urge OK Of PUCO Investigation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Democratic member of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio has urged the adoption of legislation establishing a special committee to study the regulatory agency.

David C. Swee of the PUCO told the Senate Ways and Means Committee: "Lay it out before the public and let the chips fall where they may."

The bill has already been approved by the Ohio House of Representatives. Sweet, who is also chairman of the Emergency Energy Commission, said the proposed Oct. 15 deadline for a report on the rate-making body was a problem, however.

Sweet suggested that a yearlong inquiry into PUCO operations and procedures would be preferable, with a preliminary study on heating problems by the October deadline.

Sweet also said the "lag" for action by the PUCO on utility rate increase requests could be reduced from 22 to nine months if the agency's request for an increased budget is approved.

U.S. Denies Role In Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The United States has denied it had anything to do with an attack by two Portuguese air force planes on the headquarters of an artillery regiment near the Lisbon airport.

Portugal's leftist military government termed the brief attack Tuesday an uprising and blamed "reactionary" elements headed by Gen. Antonio Spínola, the military regime's first president. Spínola's successor, President Francisco da Costa Gomes, appealed for calm and said the government was in complete control.

Brig. Gen. Otelio Saraiva de Carvalho, the government's security chief, implicated the United States, saying U.S. Ambassador Frank Carlucci "had better leave after what happened today."

"I categorically deny that the U.S. Embassy or the government was in any way involved in events in Lisbon today," said a State Department spokesman in Washington.

Military units took up positions around the U.S. Embassy as leftists surged into the street to show support for the government. A mob sacked the headquarters of the conservative Center Democratic party.

Spínola, a conservative who was ousted by leftist generals last September, fled by helicopter with his wife and 18 officers to a Spanish air force base just across the border. Unconfirmed reports said they contacted diplomatic representatives of Brazil, which gave asylum to the president and premier of the Portuguese dictatorship ousted last April.

The Spanish government announced that it also had nothing to do with the events in Portugal.

The Portuguese government closed

the border with Spain and said Spínola, once the hero of the military revolution, headed a list of 28 officers who would be "arrested, tried and punished." But by then he had made his escape.

The only fighting reported was the bombing and strafing attack by two propeller-driven, air force training planes on the 1st Light Artillery Regiment barracks. A military spokesman said the attack broke windows and put holes in roof tiles of a number of buildings and slightly wounded several soldiers.

The spokesman said a unit of paratroops surrounded the barracks but were later withdrawn. Officers of the paratroop unit said they did not know exactly why they had been sent to the barracks or on whose orders.

Spínola, a figurehead for the military revolution against the 45-year dictatorship, was forced out of the presidency when he tried to get some real power at the expense of the leftist-dominated Armed Forces Movement, the officers' group that led the revolution.

With elections for a constitutional assembly scheduled next month, moderate officers have recently been reported challenging the dominant influence of leftist officers. There has been some indication of a shift back toward the center.

Sweet also said the "lag" for action by the PUCO on utility rate increase requests could be reduced from 22 to nine months if the agency's request for an increased budget is approved.

U.S. Denies Role In Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The United States has denied it had anything to do with an attack by two Portuguese air force planes on the headquarters of an artillery regiment near the Lisbon airport.

Portugal's leftist military government termed the brief attack Tuesday an uprising and blamed "reactionary" elements headed by Gen. Antonio Spínola, the military regime's first president. Spínola's successor, President Francisco da Costa Gomes, appealed for calm and said the government was in complete control.

Brig. Gen. Oteio Saraiva de Carvalho, the government's security chief, implicated the United States, saying U.S. Ambassador Frank Carlucci "had better leave after what happened today."

"I categorically deny that the U.S. Embassy or the government was in any way involved in events in Lisbon today," said a State Department spokesman in Washington.

Military units took up positions around the U.S. Embassy as leftists surged into the street to show support for the government. A mob sacked the headquarters of the conservative Center Democratic party.

Spínola, a conservative who was ousted by leftist generals last September, fled by helicopter with his wife and 18 officers to a Spanish air force base just across the border. Unconfirmed reports said they contacted diplomatic representatives of Brazil, which gave asylum to the president and premier of the Portuguese dictatorship ousted last April.

The Spanish government announced that it also had nothing to do with the events in Portugal.

The Portuguese government closed

the border with Spain and said Spínola, once the hero of the military revolution, headed a list of 28 officers who would be "arrested, tried and punished." But by then he had made his escape.

The only fighting reported was the bombing and strafing attack by two propeller-driven, air force training planes on the 1st Light Artillery Regiment barracks. A military spokesman said the attack broke windows and put holes in roof tiles of a number of buildings and slightly wounded several soldiers.

The spokesman said a unit of paratroops surrounded the barracks but were later withdrawn. Officers of the paratroop unit said they did not know exactly why they had been sent to the barracks or on whose orders.

Spínola, a figurehead for the military revolution against the 45-year dictatorship, was forced out of the presidency when he tried to get some real power at the expense of the leftist-dominated Armed Forces Movement, the officers' group that led the revolution.

With elections for a constitutional assembly scheduled next month, moderate officers have recently been reported challenging the dominant influence of leftist officers. There has been some indication of a shift back toward the center.

Rhodes Approves Studded Tire Law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has signed into law an emergency bill that gives Ohioans a month's extension in the time they may legally use studded snow tires on state highways.

The governor signed the measure Wednesday without comment after it had been opposed in the legislature by officials of the Department of Transportation. They said the studs damage highways and create grooves that fill with water and ice, creating safety hazards.

Under the measure, by Sen. Jerome P. Stano, D-24 Parma, and others, Ohio's "studded tire season" runs from Nov. 1 to April 15. Before, it had started Nov. 15 and ended March 15.

Evidence is mounting that the Environmental Protection Agency walked into a pollution maelstrom when it promoted catalytic converters as the answer to automobile exhaust emissions. The EPA is worried by studies which show the converters cleanse carbon monoxide effectively from exhausts, but emit a pollutant potentially more dangerous — sulfuric acid.

At hearings conducted by the EPA to delve deeper into the matter, Dr. Bernard D. Goldstein, a doctor of environmental medicine at the New York University Medical Center, testified that of the two pollutants he would prefer carbon monoxide. There is little doubt, he said, "that sulfuric acid at almost any level is harmful."

EPA studies indicate that sulfuric acid could become a problem in California by 1978, with both East and West coasts facing serious problems a few years later. If a change in pollution control equipment is to be made by then, decisions will have to be made soon because of the lead time needed by auto manufacturers.

Perhaps the simplest solution was offered by a vice president of General Motors, who said diverting gasoline with little or no sulfur content to cars equipped with the converters would eliminate the problem. Gasoline stations already equipped with three types of fuels — regular, high octane and low lead — might need another bank of pumps to dispense low sulfur fuel.

Luck Of Irish . . . And Jews

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — With the happy religious feasts day of Purim and St. Patrick once more separately relished, it is again worth noting that the American Jews and the American Irish share a common heritage that isn't confined to "Abie's Irish Rose."

From the time the two oppressed tribes found these shores, most of their economic and social progress has been uphill, and on most occasions they didn't have the wind at their backs. What they had was courage, sometimes called guts, or even gall.

The Irish luck has been better than that of the Jews. It took them a shorter time to break away from the WASP merchants' dictum, "Man Wanted, No Irish Need Apply." The last sign of that sort was figuratively removed from the window of the White House of John F. Kennedy on Jan. 20, 1961. But the unspoken verboten has not yet been lifted where American Jews are concerned. If there is a Jew among the stampede of 1976 Presidential hopefuls, he has not stood up and been counted.

The Arabs, who would gladly hire a naturalized Mother Machree as either a cook or oil driller, go to extremes to keep competent U.S. Jews from employment, even American military service, in their lands. For a generation and more, they have blacklisted hundreds of American business firms because those organizations employ Jews or have made so bold as to propose that Jews have as much right to maintain a homeland as, say, the people of Kuwait.

There has been a promising dialogue opened between Jewish and Irish clergymen at Temple Emanu-El and St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York. But for all the hardships they have shared in the past, there are continued misgivings though both have contributed so generously to the well-being of the U.S. in war, peace, boom and bust.

It is no coincidence that there are no Irish at the top of network television, no Jews in high executive positions in the U.S. automotive industry. There is discrimination against Jewish premed students aiming to move onward in medical schools and universities, just as there is more willingness on the part of corporation executives to hire an applicant from an Ivy League School than one from, say, St. Mary's. How many Jewish managers have there been in big league baseball, as opposed to the McGraws, McGillicuddys, McCarthys, Bresnahan, Collinses, O'Neills, Cronins, etc? How many Irish department stores?

The American Jews and the Irish are equally sentimental about their native lands, but not many want to go there and work to make those lands better or more secure. The Jews have the stronger conscience in this case. They contribute much more to Israel than their homeland's problems. They'll be bitterly protesting at UN headquarters about Jewish emigration from the Soviet Union or the UN's treatment of Israel in connection with UNESCO (or UNICEF). While the Irish Americans, thousands upon thousands strong, will be marching litely up Fifth Avenue to the swirl of pipes and the cadence of jump-step of Monsignor F. X. Flanagan.

The Jews, who own most of the American whiskey distilleries, don't drink enough. The Irish, who own little or nothing in that line, drink too much. They do about equally well in the theater. Both of them have been put to rout in sports, as they grew more affluent, by hungry blacks and Puerto Ricans.

The blacks were originally dragged here in slavery; the Puerto Ricans enticed by the lying promise of exploiters that they'd find gold in our streets. But why did the Irish and the Jews come? Oppression and suppression, of course. And in the case of the Irish, hunger. The 1851 census in Ireland put the population at 6,552,385

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Whenever I turn my neck I hear a clicking sound. Sometimes when I'm tired there is a shooting pain with the sound. Could this be related to a diving accident I had when I was young? I am 42.

Mr. J. G. D., Can.

Dear Mr. D.:

The diving accident may have been responsible, but your experience is not uncommon at your age, even without a history of an injury.

Slight osteoarthritic deposits are very common in the cervical spine of the neck. Routine X-rays taken of people who have no symptoms may show these deposits in the bony vertebrae of the neck.

In an effort to track down the cause of your discomfort, X-rays of the neck and skull will be helpful.

Sometimes the cartilages that house the voice box may become calcified. When they override each other, a clicking noise may result.

Sitting in an upright position rather than a crouched one may be helpful if no other reason for your problem exists. You might try dry heat and an extension collar.

Cradling of a telephone between the shoulder and the chin while using the hands for other purposes can also cause neck pain.

I recall that an eye doctor once told me that many of his patients who use bifocal glasses have a tendency to keep their heads in a distorted position. This occurs particularly while watching television or doing close desk work. Strain and tension of the muscles of the neck can also be responsible for the type of pain you describe.

Both my daughter and I do not heal well. I have a scar on my neck. She has one following an appendectomy. Both scars are thick and ugly. What can be done about this?

Mrs. T. W. P., Mich.

Dear Mrs. P.:

The condition you describe may be a problem of keloid formation. The reason that this occurs is some people and not in others has not been adequately explained.

It is known that the tendency to keloid formation is an inherited one. Small doses of X-ray immediately after surgery is one of the methods by which unsightly scars can be prevented.

There are also a number of techniques by which scars, in keloid formers, can be reduced in size.

Pacifist Back Home

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Pacifist Ernest Bromley, 63, has returned to his Butler County farm after being acquitted of disorderly conduct charges but said he was disappointed he didn't get to tell his story in court.

Bromley, found innocent Tuesday in Hamilton County Municipal Court, had been fasting since he was arrested last Wednesday while distributing literature near the federal building downtown.

Judge Rupert A. Dean ruled there was not substantial evidence to support the charges and then dismissed the case. He said Bromley had not acted in what the law called a turbulent way.

Bromley, who refused to cooperate with court or jail attendants, arrived in court in a wheel chair. He was hospitalized over the weekend when city health officials became concerned that Bromley had not taken any liquids or food for 72 hours.

Bromley, following the court hearing, said he was glad of the verdict "but sorry I didn't have a chance to tell my story." He said he intended to make preliminary remarks regarding his treatment by police.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

At last "Alias" J.G. has decided to come out from behind his smoke screen of pseudo-expert commentary on every subject from Richard Nixon, Watergate, the Fuel Crisis, State of the Economy, you name it, and is showing his true color (red).

Now he assumes the position of knowing the social goals the American people share.

I, for one, wish to express disagreement with his views. I am so tired of the pessimistic "knock American and the Capitalistic System" attitude that he espouses that I'd like to suggest that he should make a closer appraisal of the society that he advocates. Has he ever been to Russia? Maybe he knows something the average American doesn't. I think on closer investigation he would find:

1. No durable peace, no lack of fear of annihilation by nuclear means or otherwise, no realization of the brotherhood of man.

2. Plenty of oppression and injustice of the minorities. Maybe the women have full equality with the rest of the oppressed. They get to sweep the streets, dig the ditches or carry the guns.

3. Plenty of exploitation, insecurity, deprivation. No material abundance or well being. Still plenty of poverty and crime.

4. The Democratic process allows you to vote for one party, the Comintern, the ruling politburo and the central committee that furnishes the oppressive rule.

This humane and rational society permits the fullest flowering of the human personality by trials, confessions by torture, imprisonment in mental institutions or banishment to hard labor in the salt mines, censorship of all literature, art etc. Their ruling on freedom of travel to their ordinary citizen, not to mention the oppressed minorities is well known.

The socio-communist theory is to put the power into the hands of a top few, nationalize everything, tell the working class where and when to work and dole out a bare existence to them. There is no striving for excellence because there is no competition. This is true monopoly socialism — rule by oppression, fear and force. Let each man spy and report on his neighbor so there is suspicion and mistrust everywhere. Give them only reports the government wants them to hear, try to prevent the propaganda of free enterprise countries from polluting their minds.

The harmonious achievement of their goals are so idealistic that the world is trying to beat down the Iron Curtain trying to get into this paradise.

I agree with only one part of Johnnie G's comments, with a variation. The more the people participate in running their own economy the more firmly peoples power is established, the more successful a Democratic America will be.

Up with capitalism and every man's or woman's opportunity to make something of himself or for himself, with his brains and initiative and ingenuity. Down with socialism and communism and the communist doctrine of a hypothetical society of unproven theory where everyone is on the same social level doing the same amount of work, receiving the same rewards for his needs. Phooey.

LEONORA R. HATFIELD
1339 S. Pickaway St.

Dear Editor:

To Elias John George or whoever is ghost-writing his letters to the editor:

I have been exposed to your various views as expressed in the Circleville Herald for some time now and have been increasingly more concerned about your views and ideology.

It is not my intention to debate these issues with you or anyone else. But I would like to state my reactions to these views.

You ask "Is socialism communism?" According to the Marxist theory, socialism is the transaction of a society to communism.

You ask "How many Communist governments are there in the world?"

Communism is defined as a system of social organization in which all economic and social activity is controlled by a totalitarian state dominated by a single and self-perpetuating political party. Do you know any countries like this?

Now I have a question for you. Why is it necessary for a socialistic communist country to build an armed fence to keep its happy people inside?

Maybe some people believe it is best that the ruling powers do their thinking and planning for them from the cradle to the grave but I couldn't believe that this is what the founding fathers had in mind 200 years ago when this Republic was founded and is certainly not my wish today.

We have recently seen our most powerful leader forced into self-imposed exile and publicly disgraced and yet the persons causing this development were not shot, sent to a labor camp or exiled as happens to objectors in some countries.

America with its highest standard of living in the world, in spite of all its mistakes and shortcomings, still attracts more people from the other countries of the world than anywhere else. Why? Personal freedom and expression as you have been privileged to enjoy!

Please take note, Mr. George. There is no armed fence around the USA to keep its unhappy people.

Germany has been and will be for generations to follow, attempting to live down and recover from the ideals and system proposed by another house painter almost 40 years ago — Adolph Hitler. Let us not make that same mistake.

Happy birthday 200 years USA and may you have many more.

Gulf Signs Agreement On Charges

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. says it has signed an agreement to settle charges that it made $10.3 million in illegal corporate donations to political campaigns during a 13-year period.

Gulf said Monday the agreement filed in federal court in Washington, gives the corporation's consent to an order prohibiting it from making illegal political contributions.

Gulf said the order also bars it from giving "false or misleading" reports to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Gulf, headquartered here, stressed that it was neither admitting nor denying specific allegations made by the SEC in seeking the court order.

"The company's ongoing investigation has determined that certain corporate funds had been made available for contributions, gifts, entertainment or other expenses related to political activity since 1960," Gulf said in a press release.

"This investigation indicates that during the period 1960 through 1973 approximately $10.3 million of corporate funds were used in the United States and abroad for such purposes, some of which may be considered unlawful," it added.

Grand Jury Eyes Police Shooting

WINCHESTER, Ind. (AP) — A grand jury will be called next week to investigate the fatal shooting of a Union City man by an Ohio police chief, Sheriff Daniel M. Reed said Tuesday.

He said Prosecutor Jan L. Chalfant is preparing subpoenas which will be served "early next week."

Gilberto Ramos, 23, was killed by Chief Devaun Rinard of Union City, Ohio, Feb. 26 after a high-speed chase across the state line. Ramos' car veered into a ditch near here, and Rinard said he fired when he saw "something shiny" in Ramos' hand.

Police said no weapon was found on Ramos or at the scene.

"We want to get this settled and clear up this mess," Sheriff Reed said.

The Jews slowly made it here after Napoleon gave them a hard time in the wake of giving them first-class citizenship in the lands he conquered. In 1555, Pope Paul IV suspected that they were behind the Protest Reformation and established ghettos, made Jews under his control wear Jewish badges, burned their books, ordered their children kidnapped and force-fed with the catechism. Today New York has many more Irish than Dublin, and many more Jews than Jerusalem. They exchange slurs, lock arms in time of war and want, sing their separate laments, tell derogatory jokes about each other, vote the straight Democratic ticket by and large, and worship their common God. Ane why not? They all God's children who found de Promised Land. Both my daughter and I do not heal well. I have a scar on my neck. She has one following an appendectomy. Both scars are thick and ugly. What can be done about this?

Mrs. T. W. P., Mich.

Dear Mrs. P.:

The condition you describe may be a problem of keloid formation. The reason that this occurs is some people and not in others has not been adequately explained.

It is known that the tendency to keloid formation is an inherited one. Small doses of X-ray immediately after surgery is one of the methods by which unsightly scars can be prevented.

There are also a number of techniques by which scars, in keloid formers, can be reduced in size.

Pacifist Back Home

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Pacifist Ernest Bromley, 63, has returned to his Butler County farm after being acquitted of disorderly conduct charges but said he was disappointed he didn't get to tell his story in court.

Bromley, found innocent Tuesday in Hamilton County Municipal Court, had been fasting since he was arrested last Wednesday while distributing literature near the federal building downtown.

Judge Rupert A. Dean ruled there was not substantial evidence to support the charges and then dismissed the case. He said Bromley had not acted in what the law called a turbulent way.

Bromley, who refused to cooperate with court or jail attendants, arrived in court in a wheel chair. He was hospitalized over the weekend when city health officials became concerned that Bromley had not taken any liquids or food for 72 hours.

Bromley, following the court hearing, said he was glad of the verdict "but sorry I didn't have a chance to tell my story." He said he intended to make preliminary remarks regarding his treatment by police.

In 1942, British bombers pounded the German city of Cologne.

In 1962, the American First Lady, Mrs. John Kennedy, began a goodwill visit to India.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson said he would send to Congress a sweeping bipartisan bill to erase all discrimination against citizens seeking to register and vote.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

At last "Alias" J.G. has decided to come out from behind his smoke screen of pseudo-expert commentary on every subject from Richard Nixon, Watergate, the Fuel Crisis, State of the Economy, you name it, and is showing his true color (red).

Now he assumes the position of knowing the social goals the American people share.

I, for one, wish to express disagreement with his views. I am so tired of the pessimistic "knock American and the Capitalistic System" attitude that he espouses that I'd like to suggest that he should make a closer appraisal of the society that he advocates. Has he ever been to Russia? Maybe he knows something the average American doesn't. I think on closer investigation he would find:

1. No durable peace, no lack of fear of annihilation by nuclear means or otherwise, no realization of the brotherhood of man.
2. Plenty of oppression and injustice of the minorities. Maybe the women have full equality with the rest of the oppressed. They get to sweep the streets, dig the ditches or carry the guns.
3. Plenty of exploitation, insecurity, deprivation. No material abundance or well being. Still plenty of poverty and crime.
4. The Democratic process allows you to vote for one party, the Comintern, the ruling politburo and the central committee that furnishes the oppressive rule.

This humane and rational society permits the fullest flowering of the human personality by trials, confessions by torture, imprisonment in mental institutions or banishment to hard labor in the salt mines, censorship of all literature, art etc. Their ruling on freedom of travel to their ordinary citizen, not to mention the oppressed minorities is well known.

The socio-communist theory is to put the power into the hands of a top few, nationalize everything, tell the working class where and when to work and dole out a bare existence to them. There is no striving for excellence because there is no competition. This is true monopoly socialism — rule by oppression, fear and force. Let each man spy and report on his neighbor so there is suspicion and mistrust everywhere. Give them only reports the government wants them to hear, try to prevent the propaganda of free enterprise countries from polluting their minds.

The harmonious achievement of their goals are so idealistic that the world is trying to beat down the Iron Curtain trying to get into this paradise.

I agree with only one part of Johnnie G's comments, with a variation. The more the people participate in running their own economy the more firmly peoples power is established, the more successful a Democratic America will be.

Up with capitalism and every man's or woman's opportunity to make something of himself or for himself, with his brains and initiative and ingenuity. Down with socialism and communism and the communist doctrine of a hypothetical society of unproven theory where everyone is on the same social level doing the same amount of work, receiving the same rewards for his needs. Phooey.

LEONORA R. HATFIELD

Dear Editor:

To Elias John George or whoever is ghost-writing his letters to the editor:

I have been exposed to your various views as expressed in the Circleville Herald for some time now and have been increasingly more concerned about your views and ideology.

It is not my intention to debate these issues with you or anyone else. But I would like to state my reactions to these views.

You ask "Is socialism communism?" According to the Marxist theory, socialism is the transaction of a society to communism.

You ask "How many Communist governments are there in the world?"

Communism is defined as a system of social organization in which all economic and social activity is controlled by a totalitarian state dominated by a single and self-perpetuating political party. Do you know any countries like this?

Now I have a question for you. Why is it necessary for a socialistic communist country to build an armed force to keep its happy people inside?

Maybe some people believe it is best that the ruling powers do their thinking and planning for them from the cradle to the grave but I couldn't believe that this is what the founding fathers had in mind 200 years ago when this Republic was founded and is certainly not my wish today.

We have recently seen our most powerful leader forced into self-imposed exile and publicly disgraced and yet the persons causing this development were not shot, sent to a labor camp or exiled as happens to objectors in some countries.

America with its highest standard of living in the world, in spite of all its mistakes and shortcomings, still attracts more people from the other countries of the world than anywhere else. Why? Personal freedom and expression as you have been privileged to enjoy!

Please take note, Mr. George. There is no armed fence around the USA to keep its unhappy people.

Germany has been and will be for generations to follow, attempting to live down and recover from the ideals and system proposed by another house painter almost 40 years ago — Adolph Hitler. Let us not make that same mistake.

Happy birthday 200 years USA and may you have many more.

Gulf Signs Agreement On Charges

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. says it has signed an agreement to settle charges that it made $10.3 million in illegal corporate donations to political campaigns during a 13-year period.

Gulf said Monday the agreement filed in federal court in Washington, gives the corporation's consent to an order prohibiting it from making illegal political contributions.

Gulf said the order also bars it from giving "false or misleading" reports to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Gulf, headquartered here, stressed that it was neither admitting nor denying specific allegations made by the SEC in seeking the court order.

"The company's ongoing investigation has determined that certain corporate funds had been made available for contributions, gifts, entertainment or other expenses related to political activity since 1960," Gulf said in a press release.

"This investigation indicates that during the period 1960 through 1973 approximately $10.3 million of corporate funds were used in the United States and abroad for such purposes, some of which may be considered unlawful," it added.

Grand Jury Eyes Police Shooting

WINCHESTER, Ind. (AP) — A grand jury will be called next week to investigate the fatal shooting of a Union City man by an Ohio police chief, Sheriff Daniel M. Reed said Tuesday.

He said Prosecutor Jan L. Chalfant is preparing subpoenas which will be served "early next week."

Gilberto Ramos, 23, was killed by Chief Devaun Rinard of Union City, Ohio, Feb. 26 after a high-speed chase across the state line. Ramos' car veered into a ditch near here, and Rinard said he fired when he saw "something shiny" in Ramos' hand. Police said no weapon was found on Ramos or at the scene.

"We want to get this settled and clear up this mess," Sheriff Reed said.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Honeymoon Or Re-Run?

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, very much against the wishes of her mother and me, moved out of our home to live with a boy she'd been going with for about a year.

After living together for two years, which they did openly, they decided to get married. Now this daughter wants me to foot the bill for a big church wedding in June. She wants a long white gown, veil, bridesmaids, flowers and a catered dinner and reception for 300, complete with orchestra.

Not only that, but she told her grandparents that in case they wanted any ideas on what to give her for a wedding present, a Hawaiian honeymoon would be great.

My question: Do you think the kind of wedding our daughter wants is in order under the circumstances? And what are your thoughts on a Hawaiian honeymoon?

FATHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR FATHER: After a couple has been living together openly for two years, a wedding such as your daughter is planning is, I think, in poor taste. Also, a Hawaiian vacation would be lovely, but it could hardly be called a "honeymoon." It would be more like a summer re-run.

DEAR ABBY: Our widowed mother, age 52, informed her children, much to our surprise, that she had been dating a man for the last three weeks.

The following week, she called and said she wanted us kids to meet this man because she was thinking about marrying him.

Well, we met him, and he seemed very polite and friendly. He told Mother that he was an undercover F.B.I. agent. My brother was very skeptical, so he asked his wife's cousin, who is on the police force, to run a check on this man. The report came back that this man was not connected with any law enforcement agency.

My brother and I got together and decided that we should tell our mother what we found out, but before we had a chance to tell her, she ups and marries this character.

Our question: Should we tell Mom? Or is it none of our business now that she's married to him?

LOUSED UP IN LONGVIEW

DEAR LOUSED: You're right. It's none of your business. She may be very happy with this man. If she isn't, and asks you for help, then you can become involved. But for now, the word from here is-cool it.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a non-Jewish person who all of a sudden starts wearing a Star of David? She went to Catholic schools all her life and couldn't possibly believe in the Jewish faith.

JUST ASKING

DEAR JUST: I would assume that she believes in someone who believes in the Jewish faith, and she doesn't care who knows it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO VIRGO: When a man tells the woman who has been dating him exclusively for two years that he thinks they should both start dating others, it's the beginning of the end. Say farewell to your Pisces. There are other fish in the sea.

FRIENDS TO TEA

Egg bread with butter and strawberry jam, tea with milk or lemon.

Egg Bread

Great to bake on a stay-at-home day.
1 package active dry yeast
4 cups flour
2 large eggs
¼ cup salad oil
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons sugar
Egg yolk mixed with 1 teaspoon cold water

In a small bowl dissolve the yeast in ½ cup warm water. Into a large mixing bowl pour the flour; make a well in the center and into it turn 1 cup warm water, the eggs, oil, salt and sugar; add the yeast mixture. With a wooden spoon, mix until combined — dough will be sticky. Cover and let stand in warm, draft-free place for 3 hours; every half hour with the spoon, work dough by turning a few times.

Onto a floured board or pastry cloth turn dough and cut into 2 portions; form each into a loaf and place in well-greased loaf pans (each about 8 by 4 by 3 inches). Generously brush tops of loaves with some of the egg-yolk mixture; cover with tents of foil (so dough will not stick to covering) and let rise in warm, draft-free place one hour. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until well-browned — 45 minutes. Loaves have airy texture and taste delicious warm from the oven; to toast, cut fairly thick.

Sunday Supper

Salmon patties, potatoes, skillet cucumbers, brownies, beverage.

Skillet Cucumbers

We borrowed the delightful seasoning from a great cook, Emma Law.

2 large cucumbers
2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Pare cucumbers; cut in half lengthwise; scoop out seeds and discard; slice cucumbers thin. In a 10-inch skillet simmer cucumbers and butter, tightly covered but stirring several times, until transparent — about 10 minutes. Stir in remaining ingredients. Makes 4 servings.

Easter Theme Used For Program Of Circle Meeting

A program of Easter was used at the Monday evening meeting of Martha Circle, Community United Methodist Church, in the church parlor with twelve members present.

The session was opened with a prayer by Maxine Andregg and Twyla Leist, chairman, conducted the business meeting. Members who haven't done so were urged to return pledge cards. A report concerning the families helped at Christmas was given to members with consideration of making it a full time project.

It was announced Martha Circle is in charge of distribution of the altar flowers to shut-in members during the month of March.

Marie Hamilton presented the program "Easter: Day Of Glorious Hope" by Norman Vincent Peale, in which he stressed the day of miracles is not over, it can happen to all of us.

Hostesses for the evening were Ruby Gwinn, Elizabeth Hall, Louise Spain, Martha Weiler and Connie McGlone.

'Stalled Diseases' Big Problem For Science

Editor's Note — This is the first in a series of articles on diseases that can't yet be cured or prevented because scientists lack fundamental knowledge about them.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — "Slow viruses," they are called.

For years they may slowly cause vague symptoms or "sleep" in your body until they waken to invade the brain, the nervous system or an organ, often disastrously.

Slow viruses may be one fuse that ignites some human cancers.

A slow-working measles virus 20 years later may cause the destructive nerve disease, multiple sclerosis.

By contrast, the viruses of polio, flu, the common cold, all strike rather quickly.

Medical researchers are frankly stalled in efforts to identify most of the slow viruses, as a first step toward controlling them. Yet they cause a significant and perhaps increasing amount of illness and death. No one knows just how much.

The slow viruses are one example of what may be called the "stalled diseases," meaning those in which there are roadblocks to full understanding of how they come about and how they can be cured or prevented.

Our two major killers, heart disease and cancer, are stalled in varying degrees.

So also are other diseases — some caused by viruses — which receive far less money for research and cure, but which impose an enormous burden of human pain, disability, and death upon millions of Americans.

Those to be described in this series are multiple sclerosis, diabetes, allergies, hepatitis, kidney diseases, and arthritis.

In truth, they are not completely stalled; there has been some heartening progress. But the frontal assaults to find cures or controls have foundered primarily for lack of basic knowledge of why and how these diseases occur.

Lack of research funds also has been a problem.

National Institutes of Health funds for research in cancer and heart disease have increased rapidly in this decade. For cancer, they rose from $190 million in 1970 to $527 million last year, and for heart disease and stroke, they have gone up from 176 million to $296 million the five years. In contrast, NIH budgets for research into multiple sclerosis, allergies, arthritis, hepatitis, diabetes and kidney diseases ranged last year from $4.2 million to $28.4 million.

Several hard questions are blocking major progress.

In one case or another, not enough is known yet about autoimmune diseases, in which the body's natural defenses become subverted to produce diseases rather than to prevent them.

Not enough is known yet about all the ways that cells and organs "talk" with one another, including through the genetic code; the way instructions sometimes go awry or are disobeyed.

Not enough is known yet as to how to grow and harvest a number of disease viruses, to identify them, perhaps to make vaccines with them.

Not enough is known yet about

"receptor sites" in the body onto which hormones and vitamins and some drugs must latch in order to become effective. When receptor sites are missing, deficiency diseases can occur, such as rickets from inability to respond to vitamin D.

"There is a flock of such diseases, not a single one of them yet treatable or curable. And they won't be without further chemical and cell studies," says Dr. Dewitt Stetten Jr., deputy director for science of the National Institutes of Health.

Slow virus diseases are equally baffling. Some scientists consider them to be "incomplete" viruses that remain inactive in the body until something happens to supply the missing component.

Various bits of evidence link measles virus to the development later in life of multiple sclerosis, and another more rare nerve disease, subacute sclerosing panencephalitis, nicknamed SSPE. A fatal disease, SSPE strikes perhaps one in a million children or young adults.

In most cases, the SSPE victims had contracted measles in the first year of life, when normal immune mechanisms are not yet well developed, says Dr. Donald B. Tower, director of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke.

Four out of five Americans may be infected with another agent, the cytomegalovirus (CMV), which rarely causes illness in adults. When it does, it produces fever and swollen glands.

But unborn babies who catch CMV from their mothers are sometimes born with brain and liver defects, or babies who appear perfectly healthy at birth may some years later suffer from deafness or borderline brain damage.

A slow virus is suspected of causing Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease, marked by early and exaggerated senility with forgetfulness, slowed body movements, erratic gait, and mental deterioration.

C-J disease, named for its discoverers, occurs sporadically through the world, and tends to run in families. It can be surprisingly transmissible, Dr. Tower says, telling of a report of an eye operation in which a person who received a corneal transplant from a donor who had had C-J disease came down with the disease 18 months later.

The virus of the cold sore or fever blister, Herpes simplex, "hides" in body tissues quite harmlessly until something triggers it into action. The triggers can be sunburn, common cold or the onset of the menstrual cycle. This virus is so widespread that it might provide some insight into the behavior of other latent or slow viruses.

A major roadblock to understanding and controlling slow virus and other virus diseases is the inability, in many cases, to isolate and identify them, says Dr. John Seal, scientific director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases.

As an example, he says that the virus causing "intestinal flu" with its penalties of vomiting and diarrhea, can be seen and identified. But all efforts to grow it in tissue culture, as a step to harvesting enough virus with which to make a vaccine, have failed so far.

Dr. Seal, in an interview, questioned whether it would be wise or feasible to try to develop vaccines against all the many flu-like diseases that come along in waves without killing people.

There are perhaps 100 rhinoviruses suspected of causing common colds, he said. Even if vaccines could be developed against all the 100, no one knows what adverse effects might follow the pumping of dozens of vaccines into people.

"Might there not be a boomerang effect, from sensitizing people to the agents you are injecting in vaccines?" Dr. Seal asks.

The question may become urgent when and if progress comes against the stalled diseases.

101 In $1 Million Lottery

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — For the first time in Ohio's three millionaire lotteries, 101 contestants will be competing — and, also for the first time, one will be from Michigan.

The extra contestant stems from one of the tickets having been signed by two persons, Juanita Risher of Richmond Heights and Ann Vespro of Willowick, both Cleveland suburbs, a lottery spokesman said. They will compete jointly and would share any winnings, he said.

Another first will be live radio broadcast of the Friday evening event by station WIK of Cleveland, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, the regular weekly Buckeye 300 drawing was to be held tonight with six participants. The drawing will be shown over seven television stations in Ohio.

Carrying Michigan's honors into the fray for the $1.32 million prize total Friday will be Donna L. Gutting of Hudson. Another out-of-state woman, Karen Tibbs, of Parkersburg, W. Va., is also entered.

Of the states adjacent to Ohio, only Pennsylvania has yet to have an entrant in the millionaire drawings, though no non-Ohioan has taken the top prize. The runner-up in the elimination process receives $100,000, and the No. 3 finisher gets $50,000. The other seven finalists receive $10,000 each, and 10 others get $2,000 each. The rest receive $1,000.

A final decision on that elimination may come April 2, when the lottery and racing commissions meet, Ohio Racing Commission Chairman Charles Ginsberg Jr. said Wednesday in Columbus.

The racing commission's approval isn't required, he added, "but we'd give our blessing."

The first millionaire contest was held at nearby Thistledown race track last October.

Contestants are chosen from among the $20 weekly winners, one would-be millionaire from every 2,500 weekly winners. Millionaire drawings are held for each 30 million tickets sold.

The fourth millionaire drawing has tentatively been scheduled for Memorial Day at Northfield Park, the suburban harness racing track near Cleveland.

Akron 'Flavor Man' Does It All Alone

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Reginald E. Anderson, who turned 75 last September, is a one-man flavor factory.

Vanilla, raspberry, peach, apricot, lemon, almond, orange, peppermint, wintergreen, coconut. "You name it, I've got it," he boasts. "Thirty-six flavors in all."

Without so much as an assistant to help him paste on labels, Anderson brews, bottles and delivers his concoctions to bakeries, ice cream plants, hospital kitchens, restaurants and grocery wholesalers in a 50-mile radius of Akron.

Anderson, who has bristly white hair but shows no signs of slowing down, is sole owner and operator of Bickford Laboratories, as his flavor factory is called.

"I do the whole thing," he said proudly, "from opening up to closing up."

He's out of bed at 8:05 each morning, at work by 10:30 — "at least that's my target time," he said — and sometimes stays late into the night filling orders.

Vanilla is his biggest seller. He cooks it in nine-gallon kettles and guarantees "it will not bake out, boil out or freeze out."

The reason is that, like all flavors with the Bickford crest, it contains no alcohol.

"That's why I call them flavors," he explained, "not extracts. By law, anything called an extract has to have a certain percentage of alcohol in it. Mine aren't made with alcohol."

That was a big selling point when Bickford Laboratories was started in the late 1910s by a chemist who had settled in Akron with a book of formulas for liquor-free flavorings.

"His name was E. T. Bickford," Anderson said, "and he started out by going around door-to-door selling the flavors out of a half-bushel basket he carried on his arm."

Ladies of the Women's Christian Temperance Union were his biggest customers, Anderson said. "And lots of folks today still buy them because they don't have alcohol in them," he added.

Anderson, who was born in West Virginia and moved to Akron in 1916, joined the business in 1937 — 12 years after the founder died and two partners took over.

"I bought out the one in 1941," said Anderson, "and in 1949 I bought out the other."

Who will get the formulas when he retires?

Anderson's not fretting about that. He and his wife of 55 years have no children.

"And I've got no plans to retire," he said. "The longer I go, the longer I can keep going."

He has a simple formula for reaching a ripe old age.

"Work," he said. "Work is the best cure for anything in the world."

Editor's Note: A pioneer could get 160 acres in the Wild West if he promised to settle and cultivate the land for five years. Today's urban homesteader gets a house for $1 if he agrees to renovate it and live there.

By NICK TATRO
Associated Press Writer
Irma Jones, a welfare mother of two in Rockford, Ill., and Daniel Frawley, a young lawyer in Wilmington, Del., are urban homesteaders. Both live in houses they bought for $1.

Their houses, both in marginal neighborhoods and needing major repairs, were virtually unmarketable a year ago. Today, they are model homes for a self-help rehabilitation program under way or planned in dozens of the nation's cities.

"The idea is to place vacant units back on the market and stabilize the neighborhood," says Edward Martin, a former top official in Wilmington's homestead program and now a policy analyst for the National Association of Housing Redevelopment Officials.

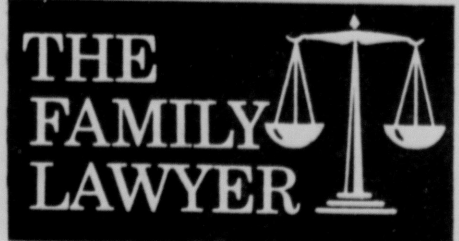

"The benefit to the cities is obvious: it gets houses back on the tax rolls. But the major thing is that the program allows people who would never be able to own a house to have one."

There are an estimated 200,000 vacant and abandoned houses in the nation and plans are under way to rehabilitate thousands. But since Wilmington launched the first program in August 1973 only a few hundred have been homesteaded because of bureaucratic delays in acquiring houses, screening applicants and setting up loan funds.

"The bureaucratic process is slow," says Asst. Secretary H.R. Crawford of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. "But the program is moving forward now and we expect it to do well."

HUD has made 4,000 repossessed homes available to cities for rehabilitation.

The homesteader lucky enough to

Hamilton, a high-school teacher, came back from summer vacation sporting a new mustache. Informed that he was violating the rules of the school, Hamilton nevertheless refused to shave it off.

Result: the principal fired him. In short order Hamilton went to court to protest. And the court held that he was entitled to retain both the job and the mustache. Describing the principal's action as arbitrary, the judge said:

"There is no indication that mustaches had caused, or were likely to cause, any disruption or disturbance; no indication of any health or sanitation problem; no indication of difficulties of any sort."

Most courts are inclined to take a similar attitude with regard to both mustaches and beards. They say schools cannot impose a "dress code" on teachers unless it has some reasonable relationship to the welfare of the school.

However, one court took a different view of a rule requiring teachers to wear neckties. In this case, the school board argued that a teacher could exert greater influence on students if his appearance was impressive.

And the court, noting that neckties were "conventional attire for those positions of leadership," decided to uphold the board's position.

What about tardiness? One teacher was late for class almost half the days of the school year. Fired for shirking his responsibilities, he insisted in court that discharging him was too drastic.

But he offered no excuse at all for his chronic tardiness. Again, the court upheld the action of the school board. "Such conduct," said the court, "without sufficient reason constitutes wilful neglect of duty."

get a house risks his money, labor and often personal safety in moving into a rundown neighborhood.

The homesteader's downpayment is "sweat equity" — he paints, polishes floors, lays tile, hangs wallpaper, builds cabinets, puts in windows, landscapes or even adds a new roof.

Mrs. Jones, 26, became a homesteader last August. She won one of 10 houses offered in a drawing to 44 persons, those found qualified after 700 applicants were screened in Rockford.

From a city loan fund of $50,000, she got a $3,700 loan at 9 1/2 per cent interest and moved out of a $135 a month, two-bedroom apartment where she lived with her two girls, aged 5 and 7.

"The landlord raised the rent from $127 and I don't know what I'd have done without homesteading," said Mrs. Jones, who spent two months painting, hanging wallpaper, putting in bathroom tile and fixing up her furniture. A contractor did the heavy work.

She saved hundreds of dollars in rehabilitation costs and despite an income of less than $400 a month, she owns a four-bedroom house.

Tired of commuting 30 miles a day, Dan Frawley, a 32-year-old E.E. DuPont lawyer, and his teacher-wife Bonnie began homesteading in Wilmington in October 1973. They started with a boarded-up eyesore.

"I put $17,000 into it and I consider the house in very good shape," he said. "You couldn't touch this house for $35,000 in Philadelphia where I used to live—and its only four blocks from the office."

"We did a lot of decorating. I did all the demolition work and my wife finished the floors. We got a professional contractor for the electrical and plumbing work."

Frawley says he became so enthusiastic about homesteading he bought the house next door and is now rehabilitating it. But five of the 28 original homesteaders in Wilmington have given back their houses.

The District of Columbia gave away 13 HUD houses in a drawing last July and plans to offer 10 more in March. There have been no dropouts.

Raymond Horton, a 47-year-old electrician who works two jobs and has four children aged 4 to 19, is hard at work on a three-story home in the Capitol Hill area of Washington. He expects to move in by June.

"If I contracted this job it would be more than $20,000, but I expect to save about half that because I can buy wholesale and the labor is my own," said Horton.

Thomas Bridgeforth, 34, a forklift operator, is still working on his two-story, grey rowhouse in the northeast section of Washington.

The work is being financed by a $17,500 loan at 6 per cent interest from the District of Columbia Development Corp., a public authority with $168,000 to loan urban homesteaders.

"The only problem has been waiting; they did all the work," said Bridgeforth, who first applied for the house in December 1973.

Bridgeforth, who supports a family of four on $13,000 a year, said he could "never afford a house without homesteading — the downpayment is a killer."

His wife, Vera, added: "People kept saying how nice it must be to get a house for $1, but it's really not just $1. We paid $207 in taxes, $45 for title insurance, $70 for fire insurance and we haven't even moved in yet."

Nadine P. Winter, a city councilwoman and former director of a nonprofit community group that launched homesteading in Washington, says she believes "sweat equity" should be a requirement.

"As it is now, it's discouraged," she said. Other officials say only 2 of the 13 Washington homesteaders have put in any significant labor of their own.

"I believe urban homesteading is the solution to the housing problem," she said. "The studies we did show 60 per cent of the rehabilitation cost is labor and I'm saying people have to learn to do it themselves."

For homesteading to work on a big scale, Mrs. Winter says it must dovetail with self-help programs such as Manpower. "My idea is to get contractors, bankers, builders and labor unions together and show people how to do things. It could even work in building new houses."

But in Rockford, homestead official Ron Hallstrom disagrees. "There is no way to effectively test the skills of a homesteader to see if he can do the major repairs," he said. "Such work affects not only the homesteader but his neighbors and we want nothing less than a licensed plumber or electrician."

Voters Reject School Levy Again

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Voters in suburban Euclid again rejected a school levy request in voting Tuesday, but schools Supt. Spartoco DiBiasio said another effort—the fourth—will be made in November.

Expressing disappointment in the 6,590-5,820 rejection of the 4.9-mill levy, DiBiasio said that without additional funds it was possible schools would have to close in late November or early December.

"This was the best levy campaign we ran," DiBiasio added. "I don't know what it would take to convince people they should be positive about their schools."

Modern Homesteaders Buy Houses For $1

Editor's Note: A pioneer could get 160 acres in the Wild West if he promised to settle and cultivate the land for five years. Today's urban homesteader gets a house for $1 if he agrees to renovate it and live there.

By NICK TATRO
Associated Press Writer
Irma Jones, a welfare mother of two in Rockford, Ill., and Daniel Frawley, a young lawyer in Wilmington, Del., are urban homesteaders. Both live in houses they bought for $1.

Their houses, both in marginal neighborhoods and needing major repairs, were virtually unmarketable a year ago. Today, they are model homes for a self-help rehabilitation program under way or planned in dozens of the nation's cities.

"The idea is to place vacant units back on the market and stabilize the neighborhood," says Edward Martin, a former top official in Wilmington's homestead program and now a policy analyst for the National Association of Housing Redevelopment Officials.

"The benefit to the cities is obvious: it gets houses back on the tax rolls. But the major thing is that the program allows people who would never be able to own a house to have one."

There are an estimated 200,000 vacant and abandoned houses in the nation and plans are under way to rehabilitate thousands. But since Wilmington launched the first program in August 1973 only a few hundred have been homesteaded because of bureaucratic delays in acquiring houses, screening applicants and setting up loan funds.

"The bureaucratic process is slow," says Asst. Secretary H.R. Crawford of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. "But the program is moving forward now and we expect it to do well."

HUD has made 4,000 repossessed homes available to cities for rehabilitation.

The homesteader lucky enough to get a house risks his money, labor and often personal safety in moving into a rundown neighborhood.

The homesteader's downpayment is "sweat equity" — he paints, polishes floors, lays tile, hangs wallpaper, builds cabinets, puts in windows, landscapes or even adds a new roof.

Mrs. Jones, 26, became a homesteader last August. She won one of 10 houses offered in a drawing to 44 applicants were screened in Rockford.

From a city loan fund of $50,000, she got a $3,700 loan at 9 1/2 per cent interest and moved out of a $135 a month, two-bedroom apartment where she lived with her two girls, aged 5 and 7.

"The landlord raised the rent from $127 and I don't know what I'd have done without homesteading," said Mrs. Jones, who spent two months painting, hanging wallpaper, putting in bathroom tile and fixing up her furniture. A contractor did the heavy work.

She saved hundreds of dollars in rehabilitation costs and despite an income of less than $400 a month, she owns a four-bedroom house.

Tired of commuting 30 miles a day, Dan Frawley, a 32-year-old E.E. DuPont lawyer, and his teacher-wife Bonnie began homesteading in Wilmington in October 1973. They started with a boarded-up eyesore.

"I put $17,000 into it and I consider the house in very good shape," he said. "You couldn't touch this house for $35,000 in Philadelphia where I used to live—and its only four blocks from the office."

"We did a lot of decorating. I did all the demolition work and my wife finished the floors. We got a professional contractor for the electrical and plumbing work."

Frawley says he became so enthusiastic about homesteading he bought the house next door and is now rehabilitating it. But five of the 28 original homesteaders in Wilmington have given back their houses.

The District of Columbia gave away 13 HUD houses in a drawing last July and plans to offer 10 more in March. There have been no dropouts.

Raymond Horton, a 47-year-old electrician who works two jobs and has four children aged 4 to 19, is hard at work on a three-story home in the Capitol Hill area of Washington. He expects to move in by June.

"If I contracted this job it would be more than $20,000, but I expect to save about half that because I can buy wholesale and the labor is my own," said Horton.

Thomas Bridgeforth, 34, a forklift operator, is still working on his two-story, grey rowhouse in the northeast section of Washington.

The work is being financed by a $17,500 loan at 6 per cent interest from the District of Columbia Development Corp., a public authority with $168,000 to loan urban homesteaders.

"The only problem has been waiting; they did all the work," said Bridgeforth, who first applied for the house in December 1973.

Bridgeforth, who supports a family of four on $13,000 a year, said he could

"never afford a house without homesteading — the downpayment is a killer."

His wife, Vera, added: "People kept saying how nice it must be to get a house for $1, but it's really not just $1. We paid $207 in taxes, $45 for title insurance, $70 for fire insurance and we haven't even moved in yet."

Nadine P. Winter, a city councilwoman and former director of a nonprofit community group that launched homesteading in Washington, says she believes "sweat equity" should be a requirement.

"As it is now, it's discouraged," she said. Other officials say only 2 of the 13 Washington homesteaders have put in any significant labor of their own.

"I believe urban homesteading is the solution to the housing problem," she said. "The studies we did show 60 per cent of the rehabilitation cost is labor and I'm saying people have to learn to do it themselves."

"Such work affects not only the homesteader but his neighbors and we want nothing less than a licensed plumber or electrician."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Hamilton, a high-school teacher, came back from summer vacation sporting a new mustache. Informed that he was violating the rules of the school, Hamilton nevertheless refused to shave it off.

Result: the principal fired him. In short order Hamilton went to court to protest. And the court held that he was entitled to retain both the job and the mustache. Describing the principal's action as arbitrary, the judge said:

"There is no indication that mustaches had caused, or were likely to cause, any disruption or disturbance; no indication of any health or sanitation problem; no indication of difficulties of any sort."

Most courts are inclined to take a similar attitude with regard to both mustaches and beards. They say schools cannot impose a "dress code" on teachers unless it has some reasonable relationship to the welfare of the school.

However, one court took a different view of a rule requiring teachers to wear neckties. In this case, the school board argued that a teacher could exert greater influence on students if his appearance was impressive.

And the court, noting that neckties were "conventional attire for those positions of leadership," decided to uphold the board's position.

What about tardiness? One teacher was late for class almost half the days of the school year. Fired for shirking his responsibilities, he insisted in court that discharging him was too drastic.

But he offered no excuse at all for his chronic tardiness. Again, the court upheld the action of the school board. "Such conduct," said the court, "without sufficient reason constitutes wilful neglect of duty."

Reds Blast
Ammo Dump

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A Khmer Rouge rocket hit an ammunition dump at the Phnom Penh airport today, setting off thunderous explosions and forcing suspension of the American airlift of ammunition, rice and fuel.

Firemen fought the blaze until the flames engulfed cases of artillery ammunition, sending up more explosions and clouds of white and yellow smoke.

It was the first time that the insurgents have struck such a vital position on the airfield, which has been under daily rocket and artillery bombardment since Jan. 1. The airlift has been suspended twice in the past 10 days for several hours each time because of the shelling.

One American led the Cambodians in a vain attempt to drag cases of ammunition from the area but was unsuccessful.

The ammunition in the dump was awaiting transfer by Cambodian air force planes to isolated positions still held by the government outside Phnom Penh.

Federal Prison
Plans Are Aired

MEDINA, Ohio (AP)—Representatives of the Federal Bureau of Prisons have been meeting with local officials to discuss a proposal for building a federal prison on the Summit-Medina county line.

The proposed site is a former tank testing area covering more than 300 acres in Hinckley Township, Medina County and 100 acres in Richfield Township, Summit County.

The government owns the land.

At a meeting Wednesday with commissioners of the two counties, it was agreed that a public hearing should be held in Hinckley on the proposal.

Nixon Pardon
'Unfortunate'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Former Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., says it was "unfortunate" that Richard M. Nixon was pardoned and that the former president should come out of seclusion to answer questions about Watergate.

"I would recommend first that he confess that he not only made errors of judgement, but also that he obstructed justice," Ervin told a news conference Tuesday. "His own words recorded on his own tapes show that he was a party to the second phase of the Watergate affair — the coverup operation."

The former senator, who resigned last year, was in Louisville for an address to the Christian Life Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A curious thing is happening in the mutual fund industry, and if interest rates continue to fall it may evolve into something deserving of a more descriptive adjective.

Here is the background: Several years ago many thousands of Americans abandoned mutual fund investments, seeming to prefer instead a safer depository for their funds — in banks and bonds, for instance.

This coincided with a decline of the stock market as an outlet for discretionary funds. Since the mutual fund industry was invested almost entirely in stocks, it was believed they couldn't do better than stocks.

Last year the flight from mutual funds slowed. In fact, net sales totaled $1.4 billion, the best sales year since 1970. It wasn't that redemptions didn't continue; they did. The change resulted from a brand-new product.

The new item was the money market fund, which invests in bank certificates of deposits, commercial paper-money lent by one company to another, Treasury bills and the like, all of which pay interest.

Since interest rates hit historic highs, the money market funds, so called because they can be turned into cash quickly, did extremely well. Their sales soared.

Meanwhile, the rest of the industry has been doing poorly. In 1974, sales of growth funds, which are heavily invested in common stocks, fell 40 per cent. Sales of the "growth and income" category, less volatile, fell 26 per cent.

In fact, redemptions in the growth category totaled almost as much as sales. And in the growth and income category, redemptions actually exceeded sales by more than $300 million.

But the money market funds sold more than $2.3 billion of shares, an enormous leap in one year from sales of just $3 million. "Money market funds were clearly the star on the financial stage in 1974," said one fund president.

But now comes the test. Interest rates are falling, and it was high interest rates that almost solely gave the money market funds that big boost. Meanwhile, the stock market seems to have regained some vitality.

So far, redemptions of money market funds have been relatively modest, although rising. But can these funds continue to attract customers?

The test isn't long off, especially if a new investment climate, based on a belief in economic expansion, takes hold. The money market funds depended to a great extent on uncertainty and insecurity in the stock market.

Dog Lover's Death Said Appropriate

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—Neighbors said Elizabeth Corsetea's "whole life was the dogs," and that was where she was found dying—among more than two dozen dogs in the garage at her home in nearby Amherst Township.

Wang Ho Lee, Lorain County deputy coroner, said Wednesday Miss Corsetea, 45, weighed about 600 pounds and that death was caused by a metabolic imbalance which stemmed from her obesity.

Authorities said some of the pets in the trash-strewn garage where Miss Corsetea lived were dead when the woman was found unconscious on the floor Tuesday night.

Miss Corsetea, who formerly worked in a kennels, died in an Elyria hospital a few hours later.

Her neighbors had become concerned after failing to see her for several days and called deputies.

Lee said Miss Corsetea had gangrene in burns she suffered last December when a pot of scalding water spilled from the hotplate on which she cooked. Neighbors said she had refused to see a doctor at the time.

Neighbors said she had lived in the garage for several years. Her nearby house was jammed with boxes, plastic food containers, other debris and dusty furniture, with paths winding among the piles of trash.

One cat and at least 29 living dogs were found in the garage. Many of the dogs were in rusty and dirty cages, the bottoms of which were caked as much as a foot deep, deputies said. Officers said the dogs, mostly dachshunds and some poodles, largely were healthy but poorly groomed.

Bodies of other dogs and cats were found at the back of the garage. Ragged and empty pet food bags lay scattered about.

Neighbors said the woman made her living from fees for the breeding services of her dogs.

Mrs. Roger Au, who operates a nearby kennel with her husband, said she was sure the animals in the garage included some "show stock."

"Her whole life was the dogs," Mrs. Au said.

A neighbor, Sherwood Blackburn, said residents of the area helped Miss Corsetea by bringing her mail and picking up dog food for her. He said health officials demanded last fall that Miss Corsetea, who was working at the time at a dog pound, clean things up.

Another neighbor, Eileena Rollyson, said Miss Corsetea "always called her dogs her children. She'd be over here and say, 'I have to go and check up on my kids.'"

Parents See Music Classes

In cooperation with the Music Educators National Conference, who are observing "Music in Our Schools Day" today, Paul Dunkle, local music instructor in the Circleville City Schools, has invited parents to the schools to observe the music classes.

Each elementary student prepared an invitation to his parents to attend music classes to see music as presented in each grade level.

The purpose of this special day is to communicate to the public the educational aspects of music education which is less observed than the finished performance product.

At the end of three school days, nearly 200 parents had visited the elementary schools to observe classes.

Dog Lover's Death Said Appropriate

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—Neighbors said Elizabeth Corsetea's "whole life was the dogs," and that was where she was found dying—among more than two dozen dogs in the garage at her home in nearby Amherst Township.

Wang Ho Lee, Lorain County deputy coroner, said Wednesday Miss Corsetea, 45, weighed about 600 pounds and that death was caused by a metabolic imbalance which stemmed from her obesity.

Authorities said some of the pets in the trash-strewn garage where Miss Corsetea lived were dead when the woman was found unconscious on the floor Tuesday night.

Miss Corsetea, who formerly worked in a kennels, died in an Elyria hospital a few hours later.

Her neighbors had become concerned after failing to see her for several days and called deputies.

Lee said Miss Corsetea had gangrene in burns she suffered last December when a pot of scalding water spilled from the hotplate on which she cooked. Neighbors said she had refused to see a doctor at the time.

Neighbors said she had lived in the garage for several years. Her nearby house was jammed with boxes, plastic food containers, other debris and dusty furniture, with paths winding among the piles of trash.

One cat and at least 29 living dogs were found in the garage. Many of the dogs were in rusty and dirty cages, the bottoms of which were caked as much as a foot deep, deputies said. Officers said the dogs, mostly dachshunds and some poodles, largely were healthy but poorly groomed.

Bodies of other dogs and cats were found at the back of the garage. Ragged and empty pet food bags lay scattered about.

Neighbors said the woman made her living from fees for the breeding services of her dogs.

Mrs. Roger Au, who operates a nearby kennel with her husband, said she was sure the animals in the garage included some "show stock."

"Her whole life was the dogs," Mrs. Au said.

A neighbor, Sherwood Blackburn, said residents of the area helped Miss Corsetea by bringing her mail and picking up dog food for her. He said health officials demanded last fall that Miss Corsetea, who was working at the time at a dog pound, clean things up.

Another neighbor, Eileen Rollyson, said Miss Corsetea "always called her dogs her children. She'd be over here and say, 'I have to go and check up on my kids.'"

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—A curious thing is happening in the mutual fund industry, and if interest rates continue to fall it may evolve into something deserving of a more descriptive adjective.

Here is the background: Several years ago many thousands of Americans abandoned mutual fund investments, seeming to prefer instead a safer depository for their funds—in banks and bonds, for instance.

This coincided with a decline of the stock market as an outlet for discretionary funds. Since the mutual fund industry was invested almost entirely in stocks, it was believed they couldn't do better than stocks.

Last year the flight from mutual funds slowed. In fact, net sales totaled $1.4 billion, the best sales year since 1970. It wasn't that redemptions didn't continue; they did. The change resulted from a brand-new product.

The new item was the money market fund, which invests in bank certificates of deposits, commercial paper—money lent by one company to another—Treasury bills and the like, all of which pay interest.

Since interest rates hit historic highs, the money market funds, so called because they can be turned into cash quickly, did extremely well. Their sales soared.

Meanwhile, the rest of the industry has been doing poorly. In 1974, sales of growth funds, which are heavily invested in common stocks, fell 40 per cent. Sales of the "growth and income" category, less volatile, fell 26 per cent.

In fact, redemptions in the growth category totaled almost as much as sales. And in the growth and income category, redemptions actually exceeded sales by more than $300 million.

But the money market funds sold more than $2.3 billion of shares, an enormous leap in one year from sales of just $3 million. "Money market funds were clearly the star on the financial stage in 1974," said one fund president.

But now comes the test. Interest rates are falling, and it was high interest rates that almost solely gave the money market funds that big boost. Meanwhile, the stock market seems to have regained some vitality.

So far, redemptions of money market funds have been relatively modest, although rising. But can these funds continue to attract customers?

The test isn't long off, especially if a new investment climate, based on a belief in economic expansion, takes hold. The money market funds depended to a great extent on uncertainty and insecurity in the stock market.

Parents See Music Classes

In cooperation with the Music Educators National Conference, who are observing "Music in Our Schools Day" today, Paul Dunkle, local music instructor in the Circleville City Schools, has invited parents to the schools to observe the music classes.

Each elementary student prepared an invitation to his parents to attend music classes to see music as presented in each grade level.

The purpose of this special day is to communicate to the public the educational aspects of music education which is less observed than the finished performance product.

At the end of three school days, nearly 200 parents had visited the elementary schools to observe classes.

Prep Cage Finals Set

By The Associated Press
It's the game southwestern Ohio basketball fans have been awaiting all season: Middletown versus Kettering Alter. The two high school powerhouses will put their unblemished 23-0 records on the line Saturday in the Dayton Class AAA regional finals.

Top-ranked Middletown advanced to the showdown by beating Trotwood-

Madison 65-60 in the semifinals Wednesday night, while third-ranked Alter gained a finals berth with an easy 84-73 triumph over Cincinnati Bacon.

Other regional semifinal action saw second-rated Canton McKinley whipping Youngstown South 92-73 in Canton Class AAA play, and Mount Blanchard Riverdale edging Kalida 52-51 in Class A at Bowling Green.

Middletown, a seven-time state champion, outscored Trotwood 31-19 from the field, but Trotwood managed to stay in the game by hitting 22 of 26 free throws to only 3-9 for the Middies.

But Carter paced Middletown with 20 points, while Dan Stephen of Trotwood (20-3) took game-scoring honors with 21 points.

Alter displayed a balanced attack as all five starters scored in double figures, led by Jim Paxson and Bob Shaefer with 21 to 20 points, respectively. Alter took an eight-point lead in the second quarter and never allowed Bacon to get any closer than five points thereafter.

Bacon's Don Doelman, the Associated Press' southwestern Ohio AAA player of the year, led all scorers with 30 points. Bacon bowed out with a 20-3 mark.

Canton McKinley, playing in the regionals for the 24th time but never a state champion, breezed by Youngstown South as Phil Hubbard, the AP northeastern Ohio AAA player of the year, swished 39 points.

Leonard Washington added 20 points as the Bulldogs notched their 22nd straight victory after opening the season with a loss.

McKinley moves into Saturday's Canton regional finale against the winner of tonight's semifinal contest between Cleveland East Tech (20-1) and Barberton (20-2).

Riverdale, paced by Jack Messmer and Gary Brown with 14 points apiece, outscored Kalida 5-4 in the overtime period after regulation play ended with the score knotted 47-47.

Riverdale (18-5) advanced to the Bowling Green regional finals Saturday against the winner of tonight's game between Pettisville and Maria Stein Marion.

Group To Rebuild River Downs Track

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Los Angeles syndicate is confident it can rebuild River Downs into a class thoroughbred race track.

"This group is accustomed to being successful," accountant George Gaulding Jr., the syndicate's leader, told the Ohio Racing Commission Wednesday.

The commission voted 4-0 to grant 100 1975 racing dates to the five-man syndicate after the group said it was in the final stages of buying the track for $7.5 million from Mrs. Joy C. Tweel of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Baltimore Blades Shut Out Crusaders

CLEVELAND (AP)—Jack Vivian, coach and general manager of the Cleveland Crusaders, said he asked his squad "if they wanted a new coach" after Wednesday night's lackluster performance against the Baltimore Blades.

The Blades defeated the Crusaders 2-0, giving Baltimore goalie Paul Hoganson his second shutout of the year. Both his shutouts have been against the Crusaders.

Robinson Charts 1st Team Lineup

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Frank Robinson said the lineup he put together for today's game—his first game as manager of the Cleveland Indians—was "about the 25th one I put together since spring training began."

"It's tough to make a lineup for this club," major league baseball's first black manager added, "partly because we don't have a real, legitimate No. 1 hitter, a guy who will scratch and claw and fight to get on base."

"Duane Kuiper probably comes closest to being a true leadoff batter," Robinson said, "but beyond him, I'm not sure."

Otherwise, Robinson added, "it's not that hard. I really think we've got a good lineup."

Robinson named brothers Gaylord and Jim Perry to start, in that order, against the San Francisco Giants, with rookie hurler Jim Kern getting the third three-inning stint.

John D'Aquisto was named to start for San Francisco, followed by Mike Caldwell and Randy Moffitt.

The official lineup card, which Robinson said he prepared 24 hours early so he wouldn't forget it, had third baseman John Lowenstein leading off followed by Oscar Gamble lf, George Hendrick cf, Boog Powell lb, John Ellis c, Charlie Spikes lf, Rico Carty dh, Jack Brohamer 2b, and Frank Duffy ss.

Four Vikings Ready For State Mat Meet

WILSON

HURLEY

Teays Valley wrestlers, with some impressive season records, will be going against opponents with equally good marks in Friday's preliminary rounds of the State Wrestling Tournament at Ohio State University's St. John Arena.

Preliminary rounds will be held Friday at 1 and 7 p.m. Saturday's 7 p.m. final round will be preceded by a third round at 1 p.m.

The four Vikings who advanced to the state tournament after placing in the top two in the district are Bill Breon, Bill Hurley, Mike Wilson, and Bill Toole.

Breon, with a 24-4 record, will go against Mark Mayer of Oak Harbor (24-3) in first round 155-pound weight class competition.

Hurley, who owns a 25-2 mark in the 167-pound class, will be wrestling Eaton's Bill Johnson, who has a 23-5 season mark.

Wilson, TV's premier 175-pounder who has lost only one match in 28 starts, will be pitted against Henry Carroll of Akron South. Carroll has a 10-1 season record.

Bill Toole will represent the Vikings in the heavyweight class, taking his 21-8 season record against Mark McCauley of Wyoming who has a 26-3 mark.

Tigers In Regional . . .

from the field and a 60 per cent mark from the line.

But his big contribution has been defense. Sahle had a total of 101 blocked shots to his credit this year and the boards are his main strength.

Waterman, another all-league and all-district performer, was also named to the Dayton Journal Herald all-star team this year.

He hit for 266 points this year, a 17 point average, had 16 rebounds, a game, and 30 blocked shots.

He likes to shoot from the perimeter of the foul lanes and scored on 48 per cent of his tries from the floor and 68 per cent at the foul line.

Justice, who possesses the most quickness on the team, was the champion free throw shooter of West Virginia before transferring to Shawnee this year.

He is the best shooter on the team and likes to work the ball inside to the big men.

As a team, Shawnee likes to use its big men as much as possible.

Defensively, they allow penetration but then rely on the big boys to reject the shots. They do not, however, make the change from offense to defense quickly. But they like to run, especially with the guards leading the fast break off the rebounds.

Primary defenses are a 2-3 zone with Shale under the basket and a half-court diamond press. They do not block out well and do not move to the corners very quickly.

Possible match-ups for Circleville on defense will have George Moore, the Tigers' 6-3 center, guarding Shale; Harold Reed on Waterman, Biff Bumgarner on Justice, Mike McCoy on McDonald, and Perry Hoskins on

Davis.

Tiger Coach John Lawhorn feels his team must keep the ball away from Sahle and Waterman to beat Shawnee. He would also like to keep constant pressure on Justice and make it as difficult as possible for the guards to bring the ball up the floor.

Lawhorn indicated his Tigers will probably use a three-quarter and full court press to compliment the man-to-man defense.

Offensively, he feels his team can score by driving at the big men, running the break at every opportunity, and looking for the corner shots.

Circleville has made it through the season with desire, excellent defense, and fine shot selection.

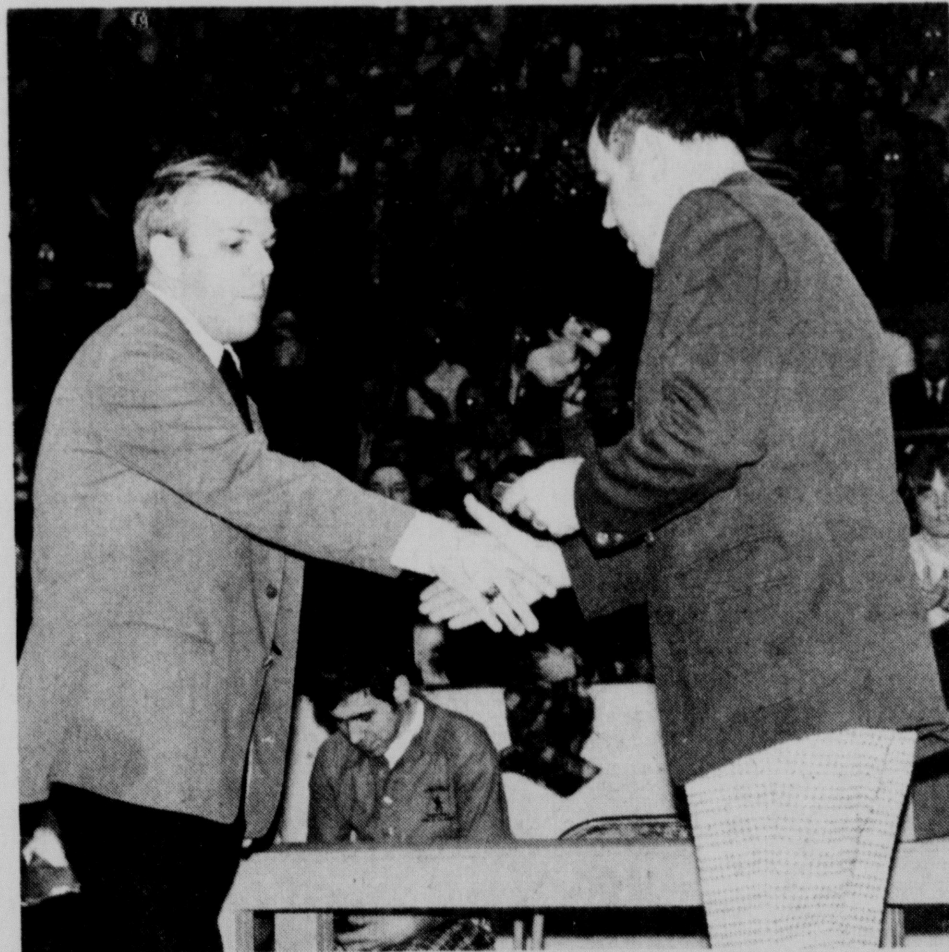

The Tigers have converted 588 of their 1,131 shots this year for a 51.9 per cent average.

Four Tigers are averaging in double figures, and any of the players are capable of pulling off game-winning performances.

Co-Captain Harold Reed is the leading scorer with a per game average of 18 points based on his 380 season total. Reed has converted 160 of his 275 shots into points for a 58.9 average and is 62 of 78 at the foul line.

Center George Moore has 337 points for an average of 15.3 a game. He is hitting 58.5 per cent of his shots from the field with 123 baskets in 210 attempts, is 91 of 106 at the foul line, and is averaging about 11 rebounds a game.

Senior co-captain Perry Hoskins, the Circleville playmaker, is scoring 12 points a game on 264 points; Biff Bumgarner is hitting for 11 on 232 points, and Mike McCoy is scoring seven a game.

Prep Cage Finals Set

By The Associated Press
It's the game southwestern Ohio basketball fans have been awaiting all season: Middletown versus Kettering Alter. The two high school powerhouses will put their unblemished 23-0 records on the line Saturday in the Dayton Class AAA regional finals.

Top-ranked Middletown advanced to the showdown by beating Trotwood-

Madison 65-60 in the semifinals Wednesday night, while third-ranked Alter gained a finals berth with an easy 84-73 triumph over Cincinnati Bacon.

Other regional semifinal action saw second-rated Canton McKinley whipping Youngstown South 92-73 in Canton Class AAA play, and Mount Blanchard Riverdale edging Kalida 52-

Middletown, a seven-time state champion, outscored Trotwood 31-19 from the field, but Trotwood managed to stay in the game by hitting 22 of 26 free throws to only 3-9 for the Middies.

But Carter paced Middletown with 20 points, while Dan Stephen of Trotwood (20-3) took game-scoring honors with 21 points.

Alter displayed a balanced attack as all five starters scored in double figures, led by Jim Paxson and Bob Shaefer with 21 to 20 points, respectively. Alter took an eight-point lead in the second quarter and never allowed Bacon to get any closer than five points thereafter.

Bacon's Don Doeilman, the Associated Press' southwestern Ohio AAA player of the year, led all scorers with 30 points. Bacon bowed out with a 20-3 mark.

Canton McKinley, playing in the regionals for the 24th time but never a state champion, breezed by Youngstown South as Phil Hubbard, the AP northeastern Ohio AAA player of the year, swished 39 points.

Leonard Washington added 20 points as the Bulldogs notched their 22nd straight victory after opening the season with a loss.

McKinley moves into Saturday's Canton regional finale against the winner of tonight's semifinal contest between Cleveland East Tech (20-1) and Barberton (20-2).

Riverdale, paced by Jack Messmer and Gary Brown with 14 points apiece, outscored Kalida 5-4 in the overtime period after regulation play ended with the score knotted 47-47.

Riverdale (18-5) advanced to the Bowling Green regional finals Saturday against the winner of tonight's game between Pettisville and Maria Stein Marion.

Robinson Charts 1st Team Lineup

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Frank Robinson said the lineup he put together for today's game—his first game as manager of the Cleveland Indians—was "about the 25th one I put together since spring training began."

"It's tough to make a lineup for this club," major league baseball's first black manager added, "partly because we don't have a real, legitimate No. 1 hitter, a guy who will scratch and claw and fight to get on base."

"Duane Kuiper probably comes closest to being a true leadoff batter," Robinson said, "but beyond him, I'm not sure."

Otherwise, Robinson added, "it's not that hard. I really think we've got a good lineup."

Robinson named brothers Gaylord and Jim Perry to start, in that order, against the San Francisco Giants, with rookie hurler Jim Kern getting the third three-inning stint.

John D'Acquisto was named to start for San Francisco, followed by Mike Caldwell and Randy Moffitt.

The official lineup card, which Robinson said he prepared 24 hours early so he wouldn't forget it, had third baseman John Lowenstein leading off followed by Oscar Gamble lf, George Hendrick cf, Boog Powell lb, John Ellis c, Charlie Spikes lf, Rico Carty dh, Jack Brohamer 2b, and Frank Duffy ss.

Preliminary rounds will be held Friday at 1 and 7 p.m. Saturday's 7 p.m. final round will be preceded by a third round at 1 p.m.

The four Vikings who advanced to the State tournament after placing in the top two in the district are Bill Breon, Bill Hurley, Mike Wilson, and Bill Toole.

Breon, with a 24-4 record, will go against Mark Mayer of Oak Harbor (24-3) in first round 155-pound weight class competition.

Hurley, who owns a 25-2 mark in the 167-pound class, will be wrestling Eaton's Bill Johnson, who has a 23-5 season mark.

Wilson, TV's premier 175-pounder who has lost only one match in 28 starts, will be pitted against Henry Carroll of Akron South. Carroll has a 10-1 season record.

Bill Toole will represent the Vikings in the heavyweight class, taking his 21-8 season record against Mark McCauley of Wyoming who has a 26-3 mark.

from the field and a 60 per cent mark from the line.

But his big contribution has been defense. Shale had a total of 101 blocked shots to his credit this year and the boards are his main strength.

Waterman, another all-league and all-district performer, was also named to the Dayton Journal Herald all-star team this year.

He hit for 266 points this year, a 17 point average, had 16 rebounds, a game, and 30 blocked shots.

He likes to shoot from the perimeter of the foul lanes and scored on 48 per cent of his tries from the floor and 68 per cent at the foul line.

Justice, who possesses the most quickness on the team, was the champion free throw shooter of West Virginia before transferring to Shawnee this year.

He is the best shooter on the team and likes to work the ball inside to the big men.

As a team, Shawnee likes to use its big men as much as possible.

Defensively, they allow penetration but then rely on the big boys to reject the shots. They do not, however, make the change from offense to defense quickly. But they like to run, especially with the guards leading the fast break off the rebounds.

Primary defenses are a 2-3 zone with Shale under the basket and a half-court diamond press. They do not block out well and do not move to the corners very quickly.

Possible match-ups for Circleville on defense will have George Moore, the Tigers' 6-3 center, guarding Shale; Harold Reed on Waterman; Biff Bumgarner on Justice; Mike McCoy on McDonald; and Perry Hoskins on

Davis.

Tiger Coach John Lawhorn feels his team must keep the ball away from Shale and Waterman to beat Shawnee. He would also like to keep constant pressure on Justice and make it as difficult as possible for the guards to bring the ball up the floor.

Lawhorn indicated his Tigers will probably use a three-quarter and full court press to compliment the man-to-man defense.

Offensively, he feels his team can score by driving at the big men, running the break at every opportunity, and looking for the corner shots.

Circleville has made it through the season with desire, excellent defense, and fine shot selection.

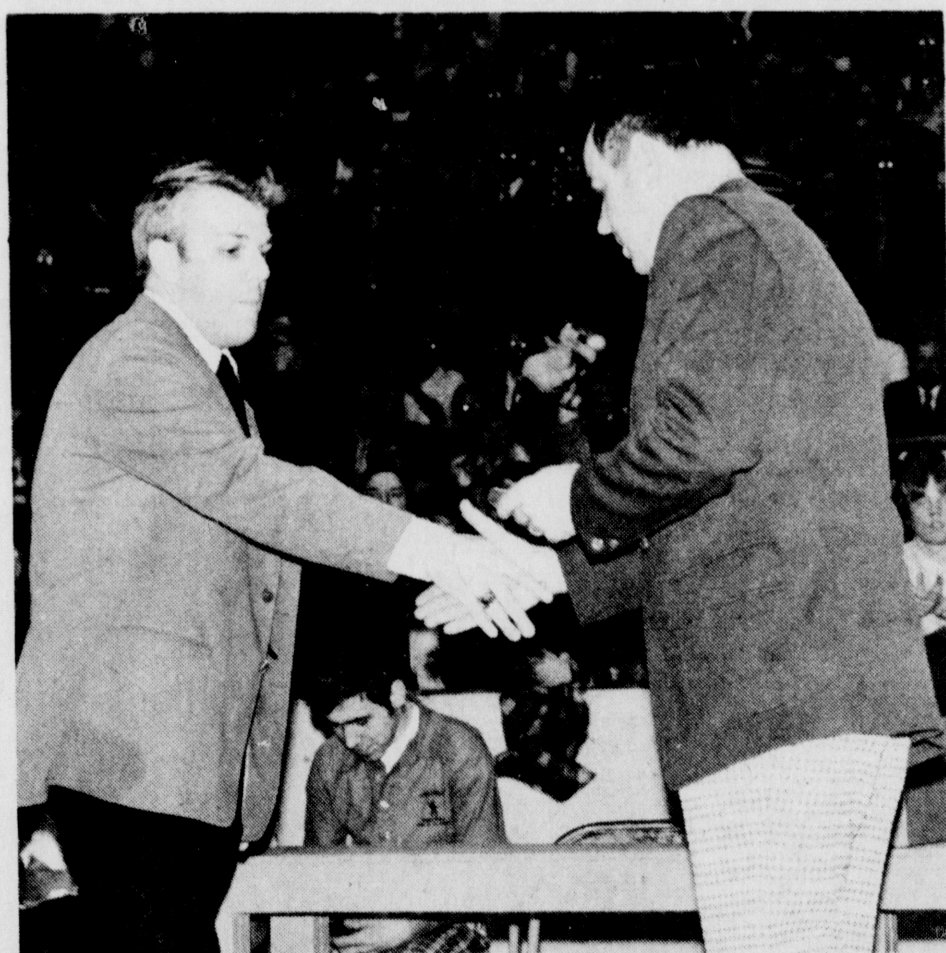

The Tigers have converted 588 of their 1,131 shots this year for a 51.9 per cent average.

Four Tigers are averaging in double figures, and any of the players are capable of pulling off game-winning performances.

Co-Captain Harold Reed is the leading scorer with a per game average of 18 points based on his 380 season total. Reed has converted 160 of his 275 shots into points for a 58.9 average and is 62 of 78 at the foul line.

Center George Moore has 337 points for an average of 15.3 a game. He is hitting 58.5 per cent of his shots from the field with 123 baskets in 210 attempts, is 91 of 106 at the foul line, and is averaging about 11 rebounds a game.

Senior co-captain Perry Hoskins, the Circleville playmaker, is scoring 12 points a game on 264 points; Biff Bumgarner is hitting for 11 on 232 points, and Mike McCoy is scoring seven a game.

Ali Not Training Hard For Wepner

CLEVELAND (AP) — Muhammad Ali pinched the excess fat on his midsection and confidently declared it isn't necessary for him to be in 100 per cent shape to beat Chuck Wepner in their upcoming world heavyweight title fight at the Coliseum March 24.

"I'm not in the best of shape, but I don't have to be to beat Wepner," Ali said after arriving in Cleveland two days ahead of schedule. "I'm about 35 per cent now and I'll be in 50 per cent by the time of the fight."

"He's not a (Joe) Frazier, (Ken) Norton or (George) Foreman," Ali continued. "I don't want to waste myself anyway. I want to hold the title for 10 more years and I've got to pace myself."

Ali drove his $120,000 mobile home from his camp in Deer Lake, Pa., the entire eight-hour drive to Cleveland. His passenger list included his mother and former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan.

Angelo Dundee, Ali's trainer, said that they broke camp early because "he (Ali) likes a change of scenery. He was really anxious to get to Cleveland to start getting the feel of things here."

Ali said that he weighed about 230, which is 15 pounds over his prime fighting weight and that he has only trained six days since the time the fight was announced.

New York Yankees To Revive Yesteryear?

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The New York Yankees, who haven't won anything since 1964, have gone all out to try and recapture those thrilling days of yesteryear.

They spent $3.75 million for Jim "Catfish" Hunter and if the Six-Million-Dollar Man were available they might have signed him, too. They traded Bobby Murcer, who never became the next Mickey Mantle, to the San Francisco Giants for Bobby Bonds, who need only be a reasonable facsimile of the old Bobby Bonds.

Without Hunter, Oakland's 1974 Cy Young Award winner, and Bonds, the Most Valuable Player in the 1973 All-Star Game, the Yankees finished only two games behind the Baltimore Orioles in the American League East last season after leading for most of September. The two newcomers may be the difference.

"There are five true super stars in the game, aside from pitchers," says Tal Smith, the club's executive vice president. "There's Cesar Cedeño, Reggie Jackson, Johnny Bench, Joe Morgan and Bobby Bonds. Any time you've got a chance to get one of them, you've got to do it."

Bonds, one of only five players in history to hit 30 home runs and steal 30 bases in one season, came in October, even up for Murcer. Hunter, who had an 88-35 record over the past four years plus a 4-0 World Series mark, won his freedom from Oakland through a loophole in his contract and signed on New Year's Eve, ending baseball's battle of the bulging wallets.

"He throws strikes, knows how to position the ball, can put the ball where he wants to and has a great attitude," says Manager Bill Virdon.

Bonds, Virdon says, will "bat third and play in right field." Despite a .256 batting average in '74, Bonds hit 21 homers and drove in 71 runs for San Francisco. The Yanks would prefer

"I've got 12 days of training left here," he said. "That makes a total of 18 days training for this fight. I really don't need that much training because I fight so much. I'll defend my title three times this year."

Ali said the reason he was taking on an opponent that he considered so inferior was to make $1.5 million.

"How many people do you know who make that much money in one day," Ali said. "I'm doing it for my people. I've already spent $2 million on a building in Cleveland. I can't say anymore about it today though. We'll have an official announcement coming up on it soon."

Ali said that he will use his already-perfected leaning on the ropes defense, plus Kid Gavilan's famed bolo punch, plus Archie Moore's crouch and the double-clutch shuffle in his defense of his crown.

The double-clutch shuffle is the only new innovation, but he isn't disclosing exactly what that is.

"You're going to have to pay to see that, fellow," he said. "You're going to have to pay."

Ali was scheduled to begin working out at the Coliseum today.

Challenger Wepner is scheduled to arrive in Cleveland Friday and both will share the facilities at the Coliseum for their sparring sessions.

numbers like 1970, when he hit .302; 1973, when he slugged 39 homers, or 1971, when he knocked in 102 runs.

The rest of the outfield is set and solid with Elliott Maddox, who hit .303 after Virdon made him a regular in late May, in center and Lou Piniella, a .305 batter in his first Yankee year, in left. Roy White, a lifetime .270 hitter, played left when Piniella didn't but is being given a shot at first base, where Chris Chambliss hit a disappointing .243 after coming from Cleveland.

Even if long-time mound ace Mel Stottlemyre doesn't recover from his shoulder miseries, the pitching is strong and deep. Behind Hunter on the starting corps are 19-game winners Doc Medich and Pat Dobson, plus lefties Rudy May and Larry Gura. Sparky Lyle is the bullpen stopper.

Catching will be in fine hands if Thurman Munson recovers from hand and arm injuries.

Most of the designated hitting will fall to Ron Blomberg.

That leaves the infield, the team's lone question mark.

Can Chambliss regain the form that made him Rookie of the Year in 1971? If not, can White or Oliver do the job? Can second baseman Sandy Alomar steady the defense for an entire season as he did for three months following his July purchase from California?

Can 24-year-old shortstop Jim Mason continue the improvement he displayed during the second half of 1974? Is third baseman Graig Nettles the slugger who slammed a record-tying 11 homers in April or the slumper who managed only 11 more the rest of the year?

Southern Cal Takes On Drake

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After playing second fiddle to UCLA, Southern California has a chance to be a top banana after all this season.

The Trojans start toward that goal tonight in the National Commissioners Invitational Basketball Tournament in Louisville, Ky.

The perennial also-rans behind UCLA's annual Pacific-8 Conference champions open their NCIT bid against Drake of the Missouri Valley Conference in one half of a double-header.

Arizona of the Western Athletic Conference and Southern Conference representative East Carolina also meet tonight as the eight-team field begins play for the NCIT championship.

On Friday night, Purdue of the Big 10 takes on Big Eight contender Missouri and Tennessee of the Southeastern Conference meets Bowling Green of the Mid-American Conference.

The semifinals are set for Saturday night and the title game will be played Sunday afternoon. Southern Cal, incidentally, finished second in this tourney last season to Indiana, which is now in the NCAA playoffs.

While the major colleges were looking forward to a tournament, the small college teams were playing theirs.

Old Dominion, Assumption, Tennessee State and New Orleans won quarter-final games in the NCAA College Division II tournament at Evansville, Ind.

Eight teams advanced to the quarter-finals of the NAIA national tournament at Kansas City—Alcorn State; Wisconsin-Parkside; Grand Canyon; Midwestern; Fairmount State; Malone; St. Mary's (Tex.) and Winston-Salem.

Old Dominion, hitting on 55 per cent of its first half shots and 52 per cent for the game, ran away from North Dakota 78-62 behind Willie Washington and Oliver Purnell. John Grochowalski and Paul Brennan each scored 27 points, leading Assumption to an 81-69 victory over fifth-ranked Gannon.

Michael Johnson scored 27 points to lead Tennessee State to a 72-69 upset of Akron. Wilbur Holland had 20 points, pacing New Orleans over California-Riverside 73-59.

Alcorn fought off determined Edinboro 85-79 behind John McGill's 26 points and 15 rebounds; Bill Sobanski had 22 points and 10 rebounds to lead Wisconsin-Parkside over Marymount 51-48; Mike Haddow poured in 16 points in the second half to lead Grand Canyon past Illinois Wesleyan 66-63; Issac DeVore poured in 25 points to power Midwestern over Norfolk State 90-87; Fairmount State stopped Winona State 102-84 as Bill Lindsey scored 32 points; Malone whipped Tri-

Gary Nolan Ready For Pitching Test

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Comeback-minded Gary Nolan was scheduled to have his first major pitching test today, drawing his initial starting assignment of spring training.

The Cincinnati Reds pitcher has been struggling two years to overcome shoulder injuries that forced him out of action after a brilliant career start.

He'll have full support of the Reds big guns, who are scheduled to be in the lineup with him against the Minnesota Twins. The Reds are off to a 1-4 start.

Real Note, a gelded son of Cohoes, has been retired after making 72 starts in five seasons of racing. Bred in Illinois, Real Note is 8 years old.

Reserve Bengals Lineman Charged

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bob Maddox, a reserve defensive lineman for the Cincinnati Bengals, was charged with possession of an hallucinogen following a raid at his home Wednesday night by narcotic agents.

Cincinnati Patrolman Alfred Gross said the 6-foot-5, 240-pound Maddox was arrested at his home in suburban Westwood.

"He throws strikes, knows how to position the ball, can put the ball where he wants to and has a great attitude," says Manager Bill Virdon.

Bonds, Virdon says, will "bat third and play in right field." Despite a .256 batting average in '74, Bonds hit 21 homers and drove in 71 runs for San Francisco. The Yanks would prefer numbers like 1970, when he hit .302; 1973, when he slugged 39 homers, or 1971, when he knocked in 102 runs.

The rest of the outfield is set and solid with Elliott Maddox, who hit .303 after Virdon made him a regular in late May, in center and Lou Piniella, a .305 batter in his first Yankee year, in left. Roy White, a lifetime .270 hitter, played left when Piniella didn't but is being given a shot at first base, where Chris Chambliss hit a disappointing .243 after coming from Cleveland.

Even if long-time mound ace Mel Stottlemyre doesn't recover from his shoulder miseries, the pitching is strong and deep. Behind Hunter on the starting corps are 19-game winners Doc Medich and Pat Dobson, plus lefties Rudy May and Larry Gura. Sparky Lyle is the bullpen stopper.

Catching will be in fine hands if Thurman Munson recovers from hand and arm injuries.

Most of the designated hitting will fall to Ron Blomberg.

That leaves the infield, the team's lone question mark.

Can Chambliss regain the form that made him Rookie of the Year in 1971? If not, can White or Oliver do the job? Can second baseman Sandy Alomar steady the defense for an entire season as he did for three months following his July purchase from California?

Can 24-year-old shortstop Jim Mason continue the improvement he displayed during the second half of 1974? Is third baseman Graig Nettles the slugger who slammed a record-tying 11 homers in April or the slumper who managed only 11 more the rest of the year?

Southern Cal Takes On Drake

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After playing second fiddle to UCLA, Southern California has a chance to be a top banana after all this season.

The Trojans start toward that goal tonight in the National Commissioners Invitational Basketball Tournament in Louisville, Ky.

The perennial also-rans behind UCLA's annual Pacific-8 Conference champions open their NCIT bid against Drake of the Missouri Valley Conference in one half of a double-header.

Arizona of the Western Athletic Conference and Southern Conference representative East Carolina also meet tonight as the eight-team field begins play for the NCIT championship.

On Friday night, Purdue of the Big 10 takes on Big Eight contender Missouri and Tennessee of the Southeastern Conference meets Bowling Green of the Mid-American Conference.

The semifinals are set for Saturday night and the title game will be played Sunday afternoon. Southern Cal, incidentally, finished second in this tourney last season to Indiana, which is now in the NCAA playoffs.

While the major colleges were looking forward to a tournament, the small college teams were playing theirs.

Old Dominion, Assumption, Tennessee State and New Orleans won quarter-final games in the NCAA College Division II tournament at Evansville, Ind.

Eight teams advanced to the quarter-finals of the NAIA national tournament at Kansas City—Alcorn State; Wisconsin-Parkside; Grand Canyon; Midwestern; Fairmount State; Malone; St. Mary's (Tex.) and Winston-Salem.

Old Dominion, hitting on 55 per cent of its first half shots and 52 per cent for the game, ran away from North Dakota 78-62 behind Willie Washington and Oliver Purnell. John Grochowalski and Paul Brennan each scored 27 points, leading Assumption to an 81-69 victory over fifth-ranked Gannon.

Michael Johnson scored 27 points to lead Tennessee State to a 72-69 upset of Akron. Wilbur Holland had 20 points, pacing New Orleans over California-Riverside 73-59.

Alcorn fought off determined Edinboro 85-79 behind John McGill's 26 points and 15 rebounds; Bill Sobanski had 22 points and 10 rebounds to lead Wisconsin-Parkside over Marymount 51-48; Mike Haddow poured in 16 points in the second half to lead Grand Canyon past Illinois Wesleyan 66-63; Issac DeVore poured in 25 points to power Midwestern over Norfolk State 90-87; Fairmount State stopped Winona State 102-84 as Bill Lindsey scored 32 points; Malone whipped Tri-

State of Indiana 80-63 behind Mark Klein's 41 points; Gary Tomaszewski scored 18 points and collected 11 rebounds to lead St. Mary's over Millersville State 75-59 and Winston-Salem nipped Central Washington 57-56 on Melvin Garrett's winning basket with 2:28 left.

Reserve Bengals Lineman Charged

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bob Maddox, a reserve defensive lineman for the Cincinnati Bengals, was charged with possession of an hallucinogen following a raid at his home Wednesday night by narcotic agents.

Cincinnati Patrolman Alfred Gross said the 6-foot-5, 240-pound Maddox was arrested at his home in suburban Westwood.

Trike Law Overturned By House

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The House of Representatives has voted overwhelmingly to overturn a law that accidentally barred children from riding their tricycles on sidewalks.

The bill to correct the legal snafu passed 94-0 Wednesday and was sent to the Senate.

Rep. Alan Morris, R-27 Westerville, had no difficulty rallying bipartisan support for the measure, although he conceded, "We don't have any reported instances of cops jailing five-year-olds on their Christmas tricycles."

The bill would also permit bicycles to be ridden on walks, except where prohibited by local ordinances.

The problem was the result of legislation passed during the last legislative session to bring Ohio in line with the federal Uniform Vehicle Code.

The foul-up came in an amendment that was designed to guarantee bicycles access to highways and inadvertently included tricycles.

Since the error was discovered, Norris said, "it's been a tempest in a teapot."

Jobless Claim Roll Steady

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The number of persons claiming state unemployment compensation for the first time remained steady in the week ending March 8, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services said Wednesday.

Initial claims for the week ending March 8 were 34,560, an increase of 66 applications.

However, claims for unemployment insurance from the state for more than one week rose again to an estimated 270,500, the eighth consecutive week of an increase.

The average claimants last year during March was 106,253 while the first week in March 268,644 persons applied for continuing compensation.

For the eight largest counties in Ohio, a preliminary estimate for continuing claims showed a decrease of about 1,000 to 116,000 from a week earlier. In the state's other 80 counties, continuing claims were up from 150,730 March 1 to 154,500 March 8.

Dying Mom Gets Adoption Bids

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— People from around the United States and Canada have flooded the office of Dr. William Bradway with hundreds of offers to take the three young children of Linda Hardy, a terminal cancer patient.

"I just can't believe the warmth and love of the people who've responded," said office manager Kay Flowers. "It brings back my faith in people."

The response was to news reports of Mrs. Hardy's plight and her final dream of finding "a good family to take my kids, to love them and keep them together."

Mrs. Hardy, who said her husband deserted the family five years ago, has been supporting herself and children, Sheri 12, Joey 10 and Amber 6, on $209 a month in welfare payments.

The 32-year-old mother, who learned she had breast cancer two years ago and is hospitalized awaiting another operation, has said her decision on what will happen to the youngsters will be based on "what I feel in my heart and what I feel is best for my children."

More than 300 calls have poured into her surgeon Bradway's office in the past three days. The county Children Services Board and news offices also have received numerous queries.

In addition to offers to take the children, many callers offered their prayers, good wishes and money.

Mrs. Flowers summed up Mrs. Hardy's reaction to the response.

"I think just knowing that people are praying for her and making her feel needed and loved is just what she needs to get through something like this," she said.

Mrs. Flowers said one of the callers, an airline executive in Florida, offered to fly Mrs. Hardy and the children to his home in Florida to see if they would like living there.

A couple who just bought a 12-room home in Pennsylvania with the idea of filling it up with adopted children said "they'd like to start with Linda's children," Mrs. Flowers related.

Among the calls jamming lines at The Associated Press bureau in Columbus was one from a 28-year-old housewife in Wichita, Kan., whose husband is an accountant.

"We don't have a lot of wealth," she said, "but we're Christians and we have an old house with lots of room that would be a perfect place for the kids."

Others inquiring about the children included a Council Bluffs, Iowa, man who said he just lost his 12-year-old son to cancer and a South Carolina mother of eight who said her husband had died recently of cancer.

University Bonding Authority Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's state-supported institutions of higher learning could receive $308 million in bonding authority for capital improvements during the state's next fiscal biennium starting July 1.

Budget and Management Director Howard Collier said the Rhodes Administration's new budget bill reappropriates $60 million left over from the current biennium, and adds authority for $248 million more.

The state would appropriate $80 million in the next biennium for principal and interest on the bonds.

Collier said these amounts would be included:

Two-year campuses, $64.6 million; Bowling Green State, $11.6 million; University of Akron, $13.9 million; Central State, $14.6 million; Cleveland State, $16.5 million; University of Cincinnati, $18 million; Kent State University, $12.6 million; Wright State University, $9.3 million.

Miami University, $18.4 million; Ohio University, $4.1 million; Northeastern Ohio College of Medicine, $13 million; Medical College of Ohio at Toledo, $28 million; Case Western Reserve, $750,000; Ohio State University, $25.8 million; University of Toledo, $10.7 million, and Youngstown State, $11.2 million.

The bill also carries $23.8 million for new medical teaching facilities at Wright State ($11.9 million), Northeast Ohio ($3 million for a Youngstown facility, $7.4 million for an Akron facility and $1.5 million for a Canton facility), and $8.5 million for various Board of Regents' capital improvements.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, voted with the majority Wednesday when the Senate passed a bill 84-13 to impose federal environmental controls on strip mining.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Snow and cold are fun for children with a warm home and a cozy fire. Our readers often ask for stories with less comfortable settings. Here are a few stories about children who are living in unfortunate circumstances.

"Blue Willow" tells of Janey whose migratory farm family often has no water for washing and are missing many conveniences. A blue willow plate is her mother's treasured remembrance of a time when life was more gracious and people ate from matched dinner plates.

"When the Lilies Bloom" also centers around a young girl, Mary Call, only fourteen and responsible for her brothers and sisters after her father's death. Too proud to ask neighbors for help, they gather medicinal plants in the hope of making money. And with no barn the animals share their house during the cold months.

Three Parisienne children without a father get help from a tramp in "The Family Under the Bridge." Each morning the children huddle under the bridge while their mother goes off to work. Their helplessness and eventual rescue by the old gentleman add up to a good story for reading aloud or for older readers to read independently.

Fifteen year old Loella lives in a little house with her two brothers after being abandoned by her divorced parents in "Papa Pellerin's Daughter." Their life in an orphanage and her stubborn insistence that her father will return are the central themes as Loella waits out her lonely existence.

Escape from a hard life and an uncle with a violent temper means hiding and always looking over their shoulder for the young people in "The Flight of the Doves." A nationwide search and nights spent in caves offer suspense for the reader.

Anna and Max and their parents must flee as did many Jews in Germany in 1933. "When Hitler Stole the Pink Rabbit" tells of the great changes for their family as they travel from country to country as their money runs out. Struggling to fit in, their hopes for better times are never abandoned as the children grow up and learn new ways.

For a thirteen-year-old in a run down apartment house in New York City life can indeed be dreary. Linda tries to laugh at the hideous old place but her yearning for beauty and fun lead her to steal a guitar. Young girls will share Linda's dreams in this interesting look at neighborhood life in the city.

A young teen lives alone with wolves during the Arctic winter in "Julie of the Wolves," the 1973 Newberry Award winning book. Running away from an early marriage, planned according to Eskimo custom, Julie survives the fierce weather and learns to face the uncertain future. The author, Jean Craighead George, a well known naturalist, brings an understanding of wild life to create an authentic background for the book.

State's 6-Day War Heats Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The six day war, which cooled off in February, is heating up again in state and federal courts.

Focus of the jurisdictional struggle is partisan legislation passed during the opening week of the General Assembly.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown, a Democrat, has asked the Ohio Supreme Court to force Gov. James A. Rhodes, a Republican, to file the six bills in dispute with the secretary of state.

That would set in motion a 90-day countdown required before the bills would become law.

Brown's move is an effort to bypass the Franklin County Common Pleas Court, where a plea to nullify the legislation on constitutional grounds is scheduled for trial April 21.

"The public interest makes it necessary that the matter be resolved without delay," contended the attorney general.

Meantime, back on the battlefield are the federal courts.

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati recently cleared the way for a threejudge federal panel in Cleveland to hear a case questioning the constitutionality of the most controversial of the bills, congressional redistricting.

Although technically a challenge to the Democratic remapping plan, the case filed by a Youngstown housewife is regarded as a friendly test action aimed at ultimately upholding the new congressional lines.

Franklin County Prosecutor George C. Smith, a Republican, attempted to block the federal case on behalf of Common Pleas Judge Frederick Williams, who is hearing the state case. Both court actions were filed Jan. 13, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

The airman has been assigned to the Technical Training Center at Lowry for specialized training in the supply field.

Airman Payne is a 1972 graduate of Teays Valley High School. His wife, Janet, is the daughter of Mrs. Kathleen Fetherolf of 5976 Harrisburg Park, Grove City.

Recently enlisting in the U.S. Navy was Robert E. Pabst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd F. Pabst, 5046 North Street, Ashville.

ROBERT E. PABST

He enlisted under the Navy's "Cache" program which means he can have up to 270 days before leaving for active duty.

A senior at Teays Valley High School, he enlisted under the Navy's guaranteed school program. He selected the aviation structural mechanic rating.

Bob also joined under the buddy program and will be leaving with Ken Logan and Dave Whitt on June 13th.

Bob was enlisted into the Navy by Petty Officer First Class John Malone of the Navy Recruiting Office at 210 South Court Street in Circleville.

Airman First Class Jeffrey S. Dresbach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Dresbach Jr. Kingston, has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the U.S. Air Force psychiatric ward specialist course conducted by the Air Training Command.

The airman, trained in nursing techniques of mental and physical illnesses and communications necessary for meeting the patient's needs, is being assigned to Andrews AFB, Md.

Airman Dresbach is a 1974 graduate of Zane Trace High School, Chillicothe.

Army Captain William A. Dore, son of Mrs. Georgia C. Dore, 164 Powell St., Ashville, completed a 38-week field artillery officer advanced course at the U.S. Army Field Artillery Center, Ft. Sill.

He received instruction in gunnery, guided missiles, artillery transportation, target acquisition, tactics-combined arms, communications-electronics and logistics.

Limited to career soldiers who are captains or majors, the course is designed to develop selected professional artillerymen to serve in battalion or brigade-level positions.

Army Specialist Four Jeffery M. Layton, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Layton, Route 1, Orient, is assigned as a truck driver in the 1st Infantry Division.

Pvt. Loretta Sue Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Long, Route 1, Mt. Sterling, is stationed in Ft. McClelland, Ala., where she is undergoing basic training in the United States Army.

two days after former Gov. John J. Gilligan signed the bills which majority Democrats had blitzed through the legislature in six days.

The fact they were not signed by former Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, a Republican, is the basis of the state court challenge.

Although all sides deny it for the record, the legal jockeying is largely due to the political coloring of the courts. The state system is generally Republican, the U.S. District Court for Northern Ohio generally Democratic.

The Democrats suffered setbacks during the six days, both in the Franklin County Court of Appeals and the state Supreme Court. Republicans remember that the Cleveland federal court upheld in a 1971 case the Democratic reapportionment of state legislative districts.

The current controversial congressional redistricting is an effort to redraw districts to give Democratic candidates a good chance to win three additional seats. Democrats claim the present 15-8 Republican edge does not reflect their party's statewide voter strength.

Also under challenge are bills to: —Transfer state income tax collections from the tax department to the office of Treasurer Gertrude Donahey, a Democrat.

—Transfer the Consumer Protection Division from the commerce department to Atty. Gen. Brown.

—Establish door-to-door voter registration and renewal of registration by mail.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You may run into some opposition, but you need not let it disturb your equilibrium or your sense of humor. You usually enjoy outwitting opposing forces.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A broad new concept of your job is in the making, which you should strive to understand. Consultation with persons who have bright, workable ideas could change your strategies.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): The cool-headed approach in all matters will bring better results than the emotional one. Your fine skills and talents are due for recognition soon.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Fine lunar influences! Aim for early accomplishment, planned in your usual orderly fashion, but do not reject the novel or the unfamiliar without due consideration.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): A fruitful day indicated, but your returns may not be quite as great as you expected. Remain composed and ready to shift to a lower gear in expectations—for the present, at least.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): This day may be described as a duel between promise and performance. The effort expended and the direction taken will be the deciding factors. Think before acting!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Care needed in travel, finances and job matters. There's a tendency toward carelessness which could lead to needless errors.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Demonstrate your abilities in a tactful manner, bearing in mind that some may not see eye to eye with you. In the long run, however, they WILL come around to your point of view.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Present influences indicate some obstacles—not insurmountable, but annoying unless you retain your sense of humor—AND patience.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Anchor to a well-organized program. Do not expose yourself to needless precarious action, or make foolish compromises, to be later regretted. Head up!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You should have new ambition and incentive under day's excellent influences. An unexpected business transaction could prove highly profitable.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Not much planetary help here, so day is practically your own to mold. Try to conclude long-term agreements if any are pending. Stars are generous in that respect.

YOU BORN TODAY are one of the most versatile of all Pisceans—and that is saying a lot. So many fields are open to you that, once properly trained along chosen lines, there is almost no limit to the successes you can attain. You have a great gift for science and could, perhaps, make your greatest mark in that field, but you also have the makings of a fine musician, a writer in almost any branch of literature, a statesman, diplomat or painter. In fact, if you do not choose the latter as a career, you may take up one of the graphic arts as an avocation. Traits to curb: moodiness, tendencies toward excessive gambling. Birthdate of: Johann Strauss, composer; Albert Einstein, physicist.

Picasso Work In Illinois

ROLLING MEADOWS, Ill. (AP) — "The Bather," a major public space sculpture designed by Pablo Picasso, is now under construction at Gould Center here.

The 28-foot-high work — being executed by Norwegian artist Carl Nesjar in the unique medium of engraved concrete — was designed by Picasso in 1962 as one of his famous series of "Dejeuner sur l'herbe" outdoor figures. Nesjar has constructed all 16 outdoor sculptures designed by Picasso for public space areas.

Work on "The Bather" is scheduled for completion in early 1975. Gould Center, a 40-acre commercial and recreational complex will be completed in late 1975.

Nesjar collaborated with Picasso from 1956 when he first introduced the famous artist to the engraving technique. Literally "drawing" into concrete by sandblasting, Nesjar succeeded in executing Picasso's sculptures from his models, marking the first time Picasso could create his sculpture on a monumental scale. He gave Nesjar the sole rights to execute the pieces he approved for his medium.

The floor of Death Valley is the lowest area in the United States, at 280 feet below sea level. It is in California near the Nevada border.

NEW YORK (AP) — The grand opening last week of the "Bob Crane Show" on NBC was so bad it was hard to believe the series came from the same company that produces the "Mary Tyler Moore" and "Rhoda" shows.

So we asked NBC for an advance peep at tonight's "Crane" episode on the theory the network accidentally began the series with a weak effort that wasn't representative of the show's true quality.

Alas, it now appears that this sitcom, about a 42-year-old family man who gives up a successful business career to return to medical school, is headed for a dread disease called cancelitis.

The first show featured a limp script and poor direction.

It only established that Crane worries about grades and has a working wife who supports the family. It also introduced a prissy dean of students and a nice, but dim landlord who often pops in on the Crane household, located atop a factory building.

While tonight's show has maybe three funny lines, the pace remains limper than last month's lettuce.

On the brighter side, "Sunshine," another new Thursday night NBC series, appears to be an unexpected goodie in a season of sludge.

It stars Cliff DeYoung as a young widower trying to raise his daughter while aiming for success in a pop music group. The premise could be fatal because the kid forever is asking Dad when he'll marry again.

But last week's premiere show largely avoided this potential bog with a fairly realistic yarn — for TV — about his futile effort to wed Meg Foster, cast as a sexually liberated divorcee who is his sometime lover.

Miss Foster, who resembles a young Lauren Bacall, quietly stole the show with an understated performance that overcame such occasional bad lines as, "I didn't like myself married — it messed up my head."

DeYoung turned in an equally good performance and the five songs in the show, including the program's title opus, made for welcome listening. Whether future episodes will be as good remains to be seen, but the start of "Sunshine" contained more than a ray of hope.

Built in 1854, the Mariposa, Calif., County Courthouse has had the longest continuous use of any courthouse in the state.

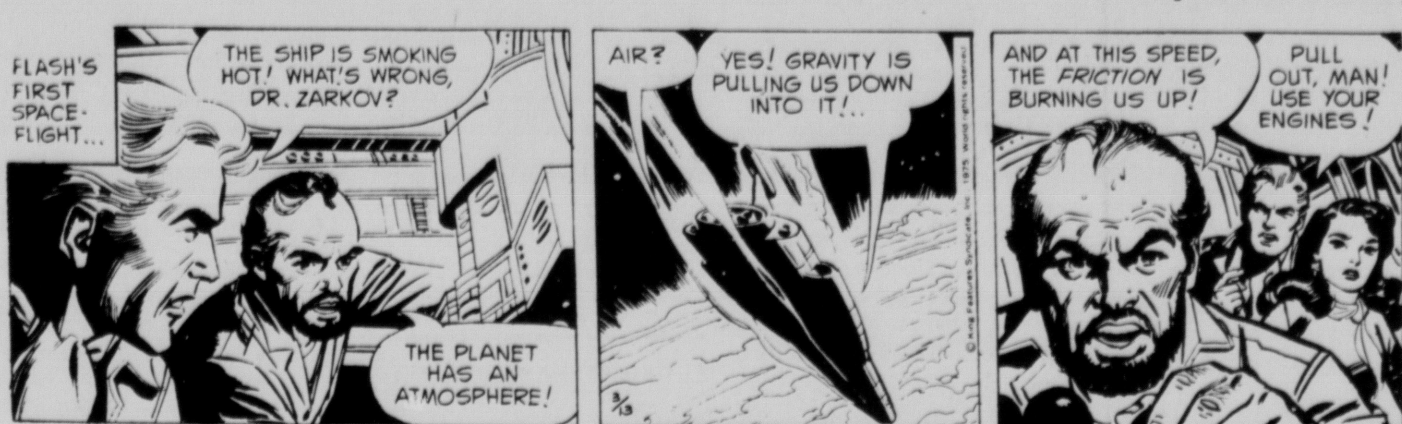

Oregon's gold rush was responsible for the founding of Jacksonville, Ore., in 1851.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You may run into some opposition, but you need not let it disturb your equilibrium or your sense of humor. You usually enjoy outwitting opposing forces.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A broad new concept of your job is in the making, which you should strive to understand. Consultation with persons who have bright, workable ideas could change your strategies.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): The cool-headed approach in all matters will bring better results than the emotional one. Your fine skills and talents are due for recognition soon.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Fine lunar influences! Aim for early accomplishment, planned in your usual orderly fashion, but do not reject the novel or the unfamiliar without due consideration.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): A fruitful day indicated, but your returns may not be quite as great as you expected. Remain composed and ready to shift to a lower gear in expectations—for the present, at least.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): This day may be described as a duel between promise and performance. The effort expended and the direction taken will be the deciding factors. Think before acting!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Care needed in travel, finances and job matters. There's a tendency toward carelessness which could lead to needless errors.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Demonstrate your abilities in a tactful manner, bearing in mind that some may not see eye to eye with you. In the long run, however, they WILL come around to your point of view.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Present influences indicate some obstacles—not insurmountable, but annoying unless you retain your sense of humor—AND patience.

Sousa March Unearthed

NEW YORK (AP) — A long-lost march by John Philip Sousa has been discovered by Dr. Richard Franko Goldman, conductor of the Goldman Band and president of the Peabody Institute in Baltimore.

It is "Garfield Inaugural March," which Sousa wrote in 1881. Sousa wrote another piece of music for Farfield's funeral six months later and the disappearance of the original manuscripts may somehow be related to Garfield's death.

After Dr. Goldman found the sheet music, he asked Prof. Dorothy Klotzman, head of the music department at Brooklyn College, to arrange the march for a full band.

"Garfield Inaugural March" will be added to a collection of sheet music for bands, "The Bi-centennial Musical Celebration," which the J.C. Penney Co. is giving to every high school, college and university in the country.

High Bowling Marks Rejected

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — American Bowling Congress officials, here for their annual convention, Wednesday announced that the high score committee has rejected 445 high score applications, 339 of which were for series of 700 or better. Also turned down were 36 games of 300, five 800-plus counts and 17 cases where bowlers got 11 straight strikes.

It was also announced that the latest move against scores bowled on improperly conditioned lanes took a heavy toll in Ohio, Texas, California and Indiana.

The national leaders turned down were a 3,707 five-man series in Oroville, Calif.; a 1,555 doubles series in Columbus, Ohio, and an 856 individual three-game series in Fort Worth, Tex.

Four 3,500-plus team series and four 1,200-plus games, all bowled the same night in Hammond, Ind., were also turned down.

A total of 75 high score applications were approved, among them 47 for 700 counts and eight for 300's.

The late Billy Welu, of Houston, Tex.; Joe Falcaro, of New York City, who died in 1951; Frank K. Baker, former secretary of the ABC, and Eli Whitney, former public relations director of the ABC, will be inducted into the ABC Hall of Fame Thursday night.

Welu was picked by the nation's writers and broadcasters with a record 124 votes; Falcaro was the choice of the Hall of Fame Veterans' board, while Baker and the late Whitney were named to the meritorious service category.

ABC officials Wednesday announced the following bowling writer competition winners at the annual press party. They included:

Feature: 1. Mike McGrath, Bowlers Journal; 2. Mort Luby, Jr., Bowlers Journal, and 3. Byron Schoeman, Bowlers Journal.

Editorial: 1. Chuck Pezanos, Sports Reporter Nutley, N.J.; 2. Gayle Hayes, Sports Mirros, San Antonio, Tex., and 3. John Archibald, Missouri-Illinois Bowling News, St. Louis, Mo.

Bill McDonald, formerly with American Machine Foundry in New York, was awarded the Mort Luby Meritorious Service Award by members of the Bowling Writers Association of America. He worked with the nation's bowling writers for more than 20 years.

Winner of the Rip Van Winkle award, also made by the BWAA, went to Paul Marion, Chicago, who bowled two 865 series within four years. This award goes to someone for a bowling accomplishment more than 20 years ago for which he never received due recognition.

The ABC bowling competition revealed no minor events changes Wednesday, with high scores going to Henry Bruss, of St. Paul, Minn., with 666 in singles; Joe Glass, of Colorado Springs, Colo., with 1,835 in allevents, and to Byron Rollman (586) and Marvin Hofer (628), of Minot, N.D., with 1,214 in doubles.

There was another standings change in the Booster team division, with King Roofing, of Toledo, Ohio, smacking 948-954-884—2,786 for third place. Pacesetter was Thomas Morse with 214-237-215—666.

Blues Bop Black Hawks In NHL, 4-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A funny thing happened to the Vancouver-Chicago first-place battle in Division 2 of the National Hockey League. It now includes the St. Louis Blues.

The Blues won their fifth game in a row by defeating the Chicago Black Hawks 4-3 Wednesday night and moved within two points of the co-leaders as Wayne Merrick scored his 24th goal of the season and assisted on Pierre Plante's 26th.

The Blues got first-period goals from Larry Sacharuk and Bill Collins but the Hawks cut the lead in half midway through the second period on a goal by Germain Gagnon.

A short time later, Merrick made a perfect pass to Plante, who scooped the puck past goalie Tony Esposito, making it 3-1. Merrick's goal early in the final period proved to be the winner and came after a pass from Plante. The Black Hawks got back in the game on quick goals by Dick Redmond and Grant Mulvey.

Elsewhere, the New York Rangers defeated the New York Islanders 5-3, the Atlanta Flames crushed the Minnesota North Stars 9-4, the Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs skated to a 3-3 tie, the Pittsburgh Penguins downed the Boston Bruins 5-3 and the Buffalo Sabres whacked the California Seals 7-2.

Sousa March

Unearthed

NEW YORK (AP) — A long-lost march by John Philip Sousa has been discovered by Dr. Richard Franko Goldman, conductor of the Goldman Band and president of the Peabody Institute in Baltimore.

It is "Garfield Inaugural March," which Sousa wrote in 1881. Sousa wrote another piece of music for Farfield's funeral six months later and the disappearance of the original manuscripts may somehow be related to Garfield's death.

After Dr. Goldman found the sheet music, he asked Prof. Dorothy Klotzman, head of the music department at Brooklyn College, to arrange the march for a full band.

"Garfield Inaugural March" will be added to a collection of sheet music for bands, "The Bi-centennial Musical Celebration," which the J.C. Penney Co. is giving to every high school, college and university in the country.

High Bowling Marks Rejected

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — American Bowling Congress officials, here for their annual convention, Wednesday announced that the high score committee has rejected 445 high score applications, 339 of which were for series of 700 or better. Also turned down were 36 games of 300, five 800-plus counts and 17 cases where bowlers got 11 straight strikes.

It was also announced that the latest move against scores bowled on improperly conditioned lanes took a heavy toll in Ohio, Texas, California and Indiana.

The national leaders turned down were a 3,707 five-man series in Oroville, Calif.; a 1,555 doubles series in Columbus, Ohio, and an 856 individual three-game series in Fort Worth, Tex.

Four 3,500-plus team series and four 1,200-plus games, all bowled the same night in

76ers Trip

Portland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thanks to Harvey Catchings, the Philadelphia 76ers kept their slim National Basketball Association playoff hopes alive and dimmed Portland's.

"His performance was significant," Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue said of the 6-foot-9 rookie from Hardin-Simmons. "He got 13 rebounds and blocked five shots in his 31 minutes on the floor, his most of the season."

The 76ers came back from a 12-point deficit and edged Portland 91-88. That gives Philadelphia 31 victories for the season, only two behind Cleveland's 33 and one behind New York's 32. Those are the Eastern Conference teams in the running for the wild-card playoff spot.

In the Western Conference bid, Detroit has 35 victories, Milwaukee 32 and Portland 30 as the regular season is rapidly drawing to a close.

With Catchings leading the way, Philadelphia dominated the backboards, grabbing a 59-39 edge in rebounds.

"We can't be out-rebounded as much as that and win," said Portland head coach Len Wilkens.

Billy Cunningham, who paced the 76ers with 27 points, also pointed to Catchings' stellar performance.

"He came in and gave us a little spark," Cunningham said.

Seven Persons Sentenced In Wednesday Court Session

In a lengthy session Wednesday morning, Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer sentenced two people to penal institutions and suspended five other penal sentences. The court also heard six pleas to felony charges and granted one motion for shock probation.

Several of the people indicted by the second session of the January Grand Jury appeared on arraignment.

William Phillips was sentenced to a term at the Ohio Penitentiary for 1-5 years. He was convicted of passing a bad check.

The same charge was levied against Earl Lee Matthews, Columbus, by the last session of grand jury. He entered a plea of not guilty during Wednesday's session of court.

Not guilty pleas were also accepted from John Carroll. Carroll was charged with writing a check without sufficient funds to cover it. He was later charged with failure to appear. Donna L. Evans, Tarlton, pleaded not guilty to three counts of bad checks.

A guilty plea was entered by Boyd Marcum, Route 1, Clarksburg. He admitted passing a forged check in the amount of $20 at the Fenn's Foodtown Grocery Store in New Holland. The court ordered a pre-sentence report to be prepared by the Adult Parole Authority.

The court also ordered a pre-sentence report on Allan K. Sutton who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and grand theft.

Robert Levan appeared briefly to deny the charge of felonious assault against him. The court accepted the plea entered by Levan's attorney.

Attorney John Adkins appeared with Robert Fyffe, Circleville, and pleaded with the court to place the defendant on probation for the offense of vandalism. Adkins advised the court that much of Fyffe's problem arose from the use of alcohol and he needed professional help instead of a term in a penal institution.

The county prosecutor, Richard Gerhardt, said then that Fyffe had a previous record of some 43 offenses dating back to when he was charged as a juvenile.

Judge Ammer proceeded with sentencing after advising the defendant that he could not consider probation at this time. Fyffe had previously entered a plea of guilty to the charge. Ammer sentenced him to serve a term of 1-5 years at the Ohio Penitentiary.

A young Ashville man, Timothy Logan, appeared before the court on two charges of vehicular homicide, one count of reckless operation and one of OMVI. He was charged in the deaths of Richard Wiegand and Mark Kuhn in December of 1974.

Logan entered guilty pleas Monday to all the charges against him and appeared for sentencing on Wednesday. The court sentenced him to two terms of 1-5 years each at the Ohio State Reformatory for Men at Mansfield on the two vehicular homicide charges and one term of six months on the OMVI charge. All three terms were suspended but the court ordered that Logan would have to spend 50 days in the Pickaway County Jail immediately.

On the reckless operation charge, Logan was fined $100 and had his driving rights suspended for three years.

Three men indicted by the second session of the September Grand Jury for grand theft of railroad ties and breaking and entering appeared for sentencing. The court suspended two terms in the Mansfield Reformatory after Donald Greene, Columbus, was convicted of the two charges. His original sentence was two terms of 1-5 years each to be served concurrently. Ammer suspended the two terms and placed him on probation for three years.

Charles Odell Porter, Columbus, was given a similar sentence except the judge did not suspend it. He was ordered to be confined for a term of 1-5 years at the Ohio Penitentiary for each of the two counts. The court did order the two terms to run concurrently.

Also involved and charged with the same offenses of grand theft and breaking and entering was Cecil Lonnie Greene, Columbus. His sentence of two 1-5 year terms in the Ohio Pen was also suspended. The court placed him on probation for three years and ordered him not to associate with Porter. Also included on his 16 terms of probation was the order to use no alcoholic beverages and to seek alcoholic anonymous counseling.

Ralph James Wolfe, Tarlton, was indicted by the fourth session of the September Grand jury for theft and forgery. He appeared for sentencing and received a suspended sentence of six months to five years on each count. The court suspended the two terms and placed the defendant on probation for three years.

A second offense of possession of hallucinogens was brought to the common pleas court because after the first offense, possession is a felony. Laurence Ray Reines was sentenced Wednesday to a term of 1-10 years at the Mansfield Reformatory.

The adult probation officer advised Ammer at the beginning of the hearing that Reines was presently enrolled in a methadone program in Cleveland and a report had been received on his progress in the program.

The court then suspended the prison term and placed Reines on probation for three years. He stipulated that Reines was to stay out of Pickaway County after a term in the Pickaway County Jail of 60 days has been served. Ammer also ordered Reines to pay the costs within 90 days and to stay away from Dennis Edward Gaul.

In final action during the morning's session of court, Judge Ammer granted a motion for shock probation filed by Richard Hensel. Hensel was originally charged and sentenced on a bad check charge. The court placed him on parole probation for one year.

Sally Jennings Davis, Columbus, was scheduled to appear on two forgery charges brought against her by the second session of the January Grand Jury but she has a motion pending which if granted would allow her case to be transferred to Franklin County.

A second car, driven by Richard E. Wonderly, 48, Route 1, Lockbourne, was also traveling northbound. Wonderly, who was in the right lane, changed lanes without caution in front of the Hayden vehicle.

Wonderly suddenly decreased his speed to make a u-turn in the cross-over. Hayden was unable to either change lanes or to stop to avoid the Wonderly vehicle. Hayden then struck the Wonderly auto in the rear and both cars came to rest in the median.

Forty-four-year-old Katherine C. Wonderly, claimed an injury but was not treated.

Sales Tax Break On New Autos Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill giving auto buyers a tax break of $160 or more was given tentative approval in the Senate Ways and Means Committee Wednesday.

The committee voted 5-0 in a special meeting to send the bill to the Senate floor.

Technically, the roll call vote remained open overnight to give other senators a chance to study the rewritten bill, but five is a majority in the committee.

The bill was introduced by Sen. Robert D. Freeman, D-29 Canton. It temporarily suspends the state sales tax on new car purchases and is intended to boost the sagging auto industry.

A similar bill, authored by state Rep. William J. Healy, D-50 Canton, is in the House Ways and Means Committee, where it faces an uncertain future.

Freeman's bill as amended in the Senate committee would be effective when signed by the governor and extend until June 30. It suspends the state sales tax on all new motor vehicles, but leaves local sales taxes in effect.

On a $4,000 car, the bill would mean a $160 tax savings to an auto buyer. If a one-half of one per cent sales tax is imposed locally, the auto buyer still would pay a $20 tax.

On a $5,000 car, the savings would be $200, and the local tax bill would be $25. The bill is supported by auto manufacturers and dealers and by the United Auto Workers. It also has drawn support from the mobile home and recreational vehicle industry. Mobile homes and recreational vehicles legally are motor vehicles and are included under the bill.

Dave Mainwaring, executive vice president of the Ohio Auto Dealers Association, urged the legislature to act quickly.

"Any delay is going to hurt rather than help, because people are going to hold back," Mainwaring said. "They're calling up and saying, 'I'm not going to buy until I find out what the legislature is going to do!'"

In the House, Ways and Means Committee Chairman George D. Tablack, D-52 Campbell, predicted trouble for the bill because of the revenue it would cost the state.

But Freeman said the moratorium would cost the state only about $7 million to $10 million a month for three months, adding: "We pay auto workers that much everyweek" in unemployment benefits.

If passed, the bill would be the first of its kind in the nation. Similar measures are pending in Indiana and Michigan.

Logan Elm Board Receives Update On Psych Program

Mrs. Opal Sims, curriculum coordinator for the Logan Elm Schools, reported to the board of education Tuesday on the district's psychological services. She advised the board that the program had really taken shape and its effects are now being shown throughout the district. She also complimented the board and local superintendent John Henn for having the insight to implement the program.

Henn, who is still in the hospital, was unable to attend the board meeting which was continued from last Monday. Board clerk Thelma Trimmer gave the report to the board.

Lunchroom supervisor, Jewell Hinton reported to the board on the activities of the lunchrooms in the district and went into detail on the activities she has planned for next year.

In routine business, the board approved payment of bills in the amount of $52,000 and approved an advance draw from Hocking County in the amount of $70,000. The board also accepted the contract for the two pre-engineered classrooms for the Washington School. These classrooms have already been ordered.

Personal leave days were approved for three teachers and several field trips were approved for student groups. The board's policy regarding field trips limits them to one per grade level in the elementary schools and one per department at the high school.

A 30-day pregnancy leave was granted to Mrs. Donna Hansford, teacher at Pickaway Elementary. The leave is effective March 14. Rather than hire a full-time replacement, the board agreed to fill the position with approved substitute teachers.

Violet Thompson, cook at the high school, was granted a leave of absence for the balance of the current school year. The board also agreed to fill this position with approved people on the substitute cooks list.

Mrs. Trimmer's report to the board included an update on the Metropolitan Educational Council which the board had previously agreed to join. This council allows school districts who are members to have certain discounts on purchasing.

The music and art show is scheduled for April 23. The exhibits will be viewed by the elementary students on April 24 and 25.

The board was also advised that the Xerox copier has been placed in the high school on a trial basis. It has proved to be beneficial to the teachers and Henn has urged them to use it for educational purposes.

Sixth grade orientation visits to the McDowell Exchange Building have been approved on the following schedule: Laurelville students on May 12; Pickaway, May 13; Saltcreek, May 14; Washington, May 15.

March 14 has been set aside as visitation in all the districts in Pickaway County. Workshops have been planned at the McDowell Building for the elementary teachers with a metric workshop scheduled for the morning followed by a reading workshop in the afternoon. High school teachers and teachers in the science department in grades seven through 12 will use the day to visit other schools.

A program was also approved for the last day of school, June 5. The teachers will hand out grade cards on that day and classes will be dismissed one and a half hours earlier.

The board was also brought up to date on the bus situation. Two newbuses have been received and Mrs. Trimmer said that it was a good thing because two of the older models went out of service last week.

The junior class play has been scheduled for April 12 and 13.

Commission On Aging Meets

Ardath Lynch, director of the Central Ohio Planning Area of the Ohio Commission on Aging, was the speaker Wednesday at the Pickaway County Commission on Aging meeting.

The director gave a brief history of the Central Ohio Planning Area, told of the services it provides and reminded the local commission of the Governor's Conference on Aging April 15-16 at the Lausche Building, Ohio State Fairgrounds. With Mrs. Lynch was Alicia Polis, I and R specialist with the Central Ohio area. There were 22 members of the commission present for the March meeting, chaired by the Rev. Don Makarius.

During the meeting Mrs. Twyla Lorentz presented the revised budget for the Pickaway County Senior Citizens Center and Vera Saunders reported on a visit to senior citizen housing complex in New Concord.

Guests included Pickaway County Commissioners L. Robert Liston and Donald Strous.

Items Valued At $2400 Taken In Theft

Thieves forced their way into the Jack R. Breckenridge residence, Route 1, Orient, sometime between 1:30 p.m. Tuesday and 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, taking an estimated $2400.60 worth of items.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy John Bost, the thieves gained entry to the mobile home by breaking the lock on a front door and forcing it open.

Four pillow cases were used to carry the clothing, jewelry, money, rifle and television, which were taken from every room, away.

The burglary is still under investigation.

Approval has been received on the plumbing inspection of the new vocational agriculture building.

In final action, the board approved employment of Donald Baker as a substitute bus driver and gave Steve Barney a supplemental contract as assistant track coach.

LILY SELLERS—Eight Logan Elm High School girls will be participating in the Easter Seal's annual Lily Day Sale this Saturday. She advised the board that the program had really taken shape and its effects are now being shown throughout the district. She also complimented the board and local superintendent John Henn for having the insight to implement the program.

Henn, who is still in the hospital, was unable to attend the board meeting which was continued from last Monday. Board clerk Thelma Trimmer gave the report to the board.

Lunchroom supervisor, Jewell Hinton reported to the board on the activities of the lunchrooms in the district and went into detail on the activities she has planned for next year.

In routine business, the board approved payment of bills in the amount of $52,000 and approved an advance draw from Hocking County in the amount of $70,000. The board also accepted the contract for the two pre-engineered classrooms for the Washington School. These classrooms have already been ordered.

Personal leave days were approved for three teachers and several field trips were approved for student groups. The board's policy regarding field trips limits them to one per grade level in the elementary schools and one per department at the high school.

A 30-day pregnancy leave was granted to Mrs. Donna Hansford, teacher at Pickaway Elementary. The leave is effective March 14. Rather than hire a full-time replacement, the board agreed to fill the position with approved substitute teachers.

Violet Thompson, cook at the high school, was granted a leave of absence for the balance of the current school year. The board also agreed to fill this position with approved people on the substitute cooks list.

Mrs. Trimmer's report to the board included an update on the Metropolitan Educational Council which the board had previously agreed to join. This council allows school districts who are members to have certain discounts on purchasing.

The music and art show is scheduled for April 23. The exhibits will be viewed by the elementary students on April 24 and 25.

The board was also advised that the Xerox copier has been placed in the high school on a trial basis. It has proved to be beneficial to the teachers and Henn has urged them to use it for educational purposes.

Sixth grade orientation visits to the McDowell Exchange Building have been approved on the following schedule: Laurelville students on May 12; Pickaway, May 13; Saltcreek, May 14; Washington, May 15.

March 14 has been set aside as visitation in all the districts in Pickaway County. Workshops have been planned at the McDowell Building for the elementary teachers with a metric workshop scheduled for the morning followed by a reading workshop in the afternoon. High school teachers and teachers in the science department in grades seven through 12 will use the day to visit other schools.

A program was also approved for the last day of school, June 5. The teachers will hand out grade cards on that day and classes will be dismissed one and a half hours earlier.

The board was also brought up to date on the bus situation. Two newbuses have been received and Mrs. Trimmer said that it was a good thing because two of the older models went out of service last week.

The junior class play has been scheduled for April 12 and 13.
